

MOVE TO KILL STATE PROHIBITION ACT

SENATE VOTES FOR DRY FUND OF 24 MILLION

Clashes Between Wets and Dry Precede Passage of Prohibition Bill
WAS STARTED AS JOKER
President to Get $250,000 to Make Investigation of Situation

Washington—(AP)—Twenty-four million dollars has been voted by the senate to help enforce prohibition. The president would direct the expenditure of the money and in addition he would have at his disposal $250,000 to make an investigation of prohibition generally.

The story of the voting of the $24,000,000 Tuesday included the usual clashes between wets and dries in the senate and off stage, apparent disagreement between leaders of dry organizations. Added to this was Secretary Mellon's opposition to the proposal.

In the course of the senate debate, Bruce of Maryland, a wet, made the statement that the apostle Paul gave his approval of liquor for medicinal purposes.

"Whiskey can be bought by any senator for such a purpose," observed Senator Heflin, of Alabama, a dry.

"How does the senator know that?" was Bruce's counter.

BRUCE STARTED IT

Senator Bruce, while he voted against the increase Tuesday, may have been in a measure responsible for it. While an appropriation bill was being considered some time ago, he put an amendment that would add $250,000,000 for liquor law enforcement. The senate was napping and the amendment went through, later to be removed in conference. The wets regarded it as a good joke but some of the dries said they believed more money was needed to help dry up the country.

While the first deficiency bill was being considered, Senator Harris of Georgia, a dry, proposed an amendment that $25,000,000 be added for prohibition enforcement. The $24,000,000 voted Tuesday was the outcome of this, the roll call being 50 for and 27 against the proposal.

The president was given broad powers for the disposal of the $24,000,000. He must distribute it to government departments concerned with prohibition enforcement, but he may spend all, or only a part of it, as he sees fit. The money would be available until June 30, 1930.

DRY LEADERS DIFFER

Even after the $24,000,000 had been added to the deficiency bill, dry leaders continued to issue statements about the differences of opinion that had arisen among them regarding it.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, denied the friction existed in Anti-Saloon League circles over the appropriation.

Earlier in the day, however, Dr. A. H. Briggs, superintendent of the California Anti-Saloon League, had declared in a statement that McBride was "attempting the impossible" in trying to carry the work of legislative representatives.

McBride in declaring there was no friction in the ranks said: "Several men have been misquoted. I am sure." He asserted that he regarded Dr. Briggs as one of his best friends and laughed at the suggestion that Edwin C. Dinwiddie of Washington, would be named to the post.

FIRE DRIVES THREE FAMILIES TO STREET

Kenosha—(AP)—Three families were forced to flee to the street to face a terrific blizzard and the cold, when fire destroyed three stores and was menacing adjoining buildings at 10 o'clock Tuesday evening with a loss of $75,000.

Every available piece of fire apparatus was in action to prevent the spread of the flames. The fire originated in the Bear Brothers' Clothing store and consumed the Siker Furniture store. The three families who lived in the upstairs apartments lost their furniture and belongings. In the terrific wind the entire section was destroyed.

State Again Digs Way Out Of Snow Drifts

FIND FROZEN BODY OF MAN IN HOUSE ON SAUMICO FARM

Green Bay—(AP)—In a farmhouse on the road to Saumico which contained neither food nor firewood, the frozen body of Joseph Corbelle, 67, was found Tuesday. Coroner Frank Hodek will conduct an investigation into the death.

The body was discovered by Henry Binn, owner of the farmhouse, who had left Corbelle in charge while he went to Green Bay. It is believed Corbelle froze to death during the cold weather of a week or ten days ago. The cold wave had killed a number of chickens. The horses were found in the yard, starving.

3 Marines Killed In Nicaragua

Martial Law Declared and Volunteers Being Trained by Moncada

Managua, Nicaragua—(AP)—Latest advices from northern Nicaragua state that three marines of a patrol of seven, which clashed with outlaws northeast of Yall in the department of Jinotega on Monday, were killed.

Those killed were Privates A. Rector, Des Moines, Iowa, whose death had previously been reported; Rastus Collins, of Lyons, Ga., and George T. Oswill, of Miami, Fla.

First word of Rector's death was brought to marine headquarters by a messenger Tuesday while additional advices received Wednesday dealt with the deaths of the other two. Only meagre details have been received.

Steps toward declaring martial law in the northern departments are being taken by the Nicaragua authorities and the training of volunteers for service in the region is going on rapidly.

Volunteers were being trained Wednesday for warfare on outlaws who have been harassing the district.

Dr. Francisco Malena, surgeon for the rebel forces of General Augusto Sandino, said in Honduras last week that the general was planning a big offensive in Nicaragua. About the same time President Moncada of Nicaragua, turned down a peace proposal from Sandino which urged that the northern department of Nueva Segovia be separated from Nicaragua and turned over to the rebel leaders.

After word of the most recent killing had been received the Nicaragua senate adopted a resolution declaring martial law in Jinotega, Nueva Segovia, Matagalpa and Estelí.

Training of volunteers for service in the region was undertaken by President Moncada.

EIGHT INJURED IN STREET-CAR CRASH

Milwaukee Motormen Con- fused by Signals at Cross- ing, Police Believe

Milwaukee—(AP)—Eight persons were injured, one seriously, when a northbound street-car crashed into one coming from the east on a Wisconsin avenue crossing during the early morning rush hour Tuesday.

More than 200 passengers on the two cars were thrown into confusion by the crash. Those standing in the aisles were thrown off their feet.

There were many women on the two cars and their screams added to the confusion. Although no women were taken to the hospital for treatment, several were shaken up considerably.

The seriously injured person was Leo Doshan, 31, who was injured internally.

Police believed that the motormen, confused by the traffic lights at the intersection, apparently misunderstood each other's intentions. The northbound car carved in the side of the car coming from the east.

CHILD BORN IN SNOW WHEN CAR IS WRECKED

Ashland—(AP)—When the automobile in which she was being taken to a hospital overturned on a country road more than five miles from here Sunday, Mrs. Mike Matryae crawled from the wreck and gave birth to a son in a snow drift. It was learned here late Tuesday.

Dr. Dell Anders, Ashland co. physician, was called to the scene and administered aid to the mother. Later Mrs. Matryae and her son were brought to a hospital here where both appear to have suffered but little from their privation.

MOST ROADS ARE BLOCKED BY BLIZZARD

One Death Reported—Se- vere Cold Spell Follows in Wake of Storm

A howling blizzard swept into Wisconsin the upper peninsula of Michigan Tuesday night and Wednesday, with the aid of bitter cold, had effectively threatened rail service and blocked most highway traffic.

All except the southern section of Wisconsin was held fast in the choking snow-drifts, frozen hard by sub-zero temperatures. Highway crews were having a difficult time in opening roads.

One death directly attributable to the cold spell was reported. Harry Carr, 45, was found frozen to death at Westby, Wis.

TRAINS LATE

Trains were arriving here from 15 to 30 minutes late Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Approximately two inches of snow fell here during the past 24 hours. The mercury tobogganed to 11 degrees below zero at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning but by noon, it registered 1 degree below zero. Warmer weather is predicted for Thursday.

With only a few exceptions, travel in the county was practically impossible Wednesday morning, it was reported at the office of the county highway commissioner.

The only road on which traffic was going through were Highway 41 between here and Green Bay, Highway 10 from Appleton west to the county line, and Highway 125 between Appleton and Menasha and Neenah.

County highway employees were moving snow from Highways 41, 55, and 76, and it was expected that these arteries would be open practically their entire distance in the county by Wednesday evening.

Automobile travel over other roads in the county was impossible.

Although the snowfall Tuesday was not exceptionally heavy, a strong wind which accompanied the storm piled the snow into huge drifts in many places. Farmers and rural mail carriers were experiencing difficulty getting through with teams.

Woodcock felt the full force of the gale. Six and eight foot snow drifts held automobiles on the highways in a vice-like grip and their occupants were forced to abandon them and seek shelter in nearby barnhouses. Train service into Marshfield was disrupted Tuesday night and no train had run the blockade of snow and cold early Wednesday.

Roads out of Wausau were being opened Wednesday and normal traffic was hoped for by noon. At Daney, a railroad snow plow found it aside the huge drift on the Milwaukee branch railroad between Wausau and Portage and held up two trains for about four hours.

GALE PACKS DRIFTS

Eight county snow plows were in action on the highways leading out of Green Bay. A 35-mile gale packed Tuesday's snowfall into hard drifts but county highway officials said they believed the roads would be open by noon.

Temperatures as low as 25 below were reported from Ashland and Northeastern Wisconsin, with 20 below as far south as Wisconsin Rapids.

FATHER AND KIDNAPED GIRL FOUND IN WOODS

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—(AP)—A woodland idyll with porcupines and nothing else for food had ended Wednesday for Harry Crawford, 52, of Cleveland. He was held in the Chippewa co. jail charged with kidnaping his 15-year-old daughter Mae and with abandoning his wife and two small children.

The daughter was on her way back to Cleveland with her mother Crawford and the girl were found in the woods. They were subsisting solely on porcupine meat, the father having slain the porcupines with a club. Brought here for investigation, they gave fictitious names but finally Crawford admitted his identity and his wife was notified.

QUICK JUSTICE METED OUT TO LONE BURGLAR

Madison—(AP)—Alvin Herman, 28, Madison, started a five-year burglary term in the Green Bay Reformatory Wednesday, 24 hours after he admitted the crime, and 60 hours after he robbed the Helleskov service station here.

Herman was arrested Monday night on suspicion that he had piled the hinges from the safe in the reformatory station and stolen $219 cash. Monday morning, he confessed the crime. Tuesday afternoon and was sentenced soon after by Judge S. B. Schein. He was taken to the reformatory Wednesday.

Find $150 More Of Loot In Green Bay Robbery

Green Bay—(AP)—Approximately $150 in bills, part of the loot from the Farmers' Exchange bank robbery here, was recovered in a jar under the sill of a garage near Poynette Tuesday, it was announced Wednesday by Sheriff William Nicolson.

Elan Delaney, policeman, who pleaded guilty to complicity in the robbery, led the officials to the cache on the farm of George Thiesen, also held in connection with the case. A sum of money previously had been found buried on the Thiesen farm.

On the way back from Poynette, the sheriff's car overturned and he and Delaney had to continue by train. Delaney is to be taken to the state reformatory here to start serving his sentence, Wednesday night or Thursday.

Ernest Alvin Schumert, 24, and Byron La Duke, 20, principal and accessory in the $40,000 robbery here, were the burglars who removed the safe from the North Side Community club about a month and a half ago, and who robbed the De Groot and Allen Electric shop, a block or two away, of a radio set and other articles, was in the possession of District Attorney V. C. Lewellen.

The information was obtained during the long grilling of Wilfred "Mushy" Noel, the other bank robber, and Elan "Slim" Delaney, former police officer. Delaney, Lewellen said, admitted that he knew the burglars were to be committed and, while he did nothing to prevent them, did not take part in them.

Schumert also was accused by Delaney of stealing a Nash car belonging to a De Pere woman, which was found parked at the foot of Cherry-st. a day or two after the North Side Community club burglary. In it were a sledgehammer and a punch, such as had been used in several safe burglaries about the city shortly before.

CRUISER BILL BACKERS NOW EXPECT EARLY VOTE

Washington—(AP)—Friends of the cruiser bill are expecting it to make a quick run toward a final vote, once the deficiency appropriation bill is out of the way.

The deficiency bill, with an anchor that has held it fast, the proposed increase in prohibition enforcement funds, shows signs of casting loose from its mooring after the settlement of the controversy over tax refunds.

Proponents of the bill plan to keep the proposed measure which would call for the construction of 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier up until disposition is made of it.

Proponents of the cruiser bill have been fearful that the extended argument over appropriation bills and other matters that arose from time to time have been in reality a filibuster aimed at the warrent program.

Opponents, however, have said that any filibuster was in progress or intended.

WOMAN ARRESTED FOR KIDNAPING OWN CHILD

Kenosha—(AP)—Police Wednesday arrested Mrs. Elmore Hentz, 31, on charges of kidnaping her own daughter. The charges were preferred by Mrs. Frank Minnauch, stepmother of Mrs. Hentz.

The alleged kidnaping took place in October, Mrs. Minnauch charged. She also declared her step-daughter had been married seven times, three times illegally.

According to Mrs. Minnauch, the child in question, Marie Edna Michlke, was born of the third husband of Mrs. Hentz, Fred Michlke. They were married in Milwaukee in 1920 and after living together a year were divorced. The divorce was granted three days after the birth of the child. It was then that the child was given to Mrs. Minnauch, she said.

ESCAPED CONVICT IN EAST IS RECAPTURED

Ossining, N. Y.—(AP)—Frank Hawkes, long term prisoner who with two others escaped from Sing Sing prison Tuesday night was recaptured Wednesday at Phillips Manor, two and a half miles from the prison. The capture of Hawkes left only one of the escaped convicts at large.

Last Minute Bulletins

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—The products of prison industries would largely be absorbed by the political sub-divisions of the state if a plan sponsored by the administration is adopted by the legislature. Governor Green and members of the state prison commission believe prison industries should enter the competitive field as little as possible. To keep the competition with private enterprises at a minimum, the industries will be devoted as much as possible to producing commodities which can be used in state and local institutions. A bill has been drafted, it was announced Wednesday, which would require the purchase of prison products within certain limitations.

Chicago—(AP)—Dr. Clyde L. Kline, of the Wharton School of Economics, Philadelphia, Wednesday accepted the position of arbitrator in the milk price controversy here between members of the Pure Milk association, producers and the Chicago Milk council, the distributors. He will arrive Monday. It was said that amounts of milk received at the outlying stations was less than before the strike many of the dairymen using their milk for butter and cheese.

Washington—(AP)—In the face of the opposition of Secretary Mellon, Senator McKellar of Tennessee, insisted in the senate Wednesday on the adoption of his proposal to

4 INQUIRIES ARE BEGUN IN OHIO TRAGEDY

Death Toll Mounts to 19 With Three Others in Critical Condition

Bellevue, Ohio—(AP)—The death toll of Tuesday's crash between a bus and a Lake Shore Electric Interurban car mounted to 19 Wednesday with the death of Richard Freeman, 30, of Cleveland.

Four investigations have been started to determine responsibility for the crash.

Of the injured, three lay in hospitals so critically injured that they may die. In all there were 32 passengers in the bus.

The investigations began with action by Dr. C. L. Bell, Huron co. coroner, assisted by Edward Martin, county prosecutor, and by the state railroad commission.

County officials pointed out that the bus driver and the interurban motorman of the interurban had observed the usual safety precautions. A blinding snow storm was streaking across the northern part of the state at the time of the wreck.

OBSERVED PRECAUTIONS

Edward Butler, Cleveland, driver of the bus, who is in a hospital with severe cuts, said he stopped the bus at the crossing, looked in both directions for approaching trains, and then proceeded when the way appeared clear.

The interurban motorman, Fred Schuyler, said he blew two whistles, threw on his emergency brakes and reversed the current when he saw the bus on the crossing. None of his passengers was hurt beyond minor bruises and shock.

Other investigations were in progress by the Greyhound lines, from the Toledo office of the company, and by the Lake shore electric railway under Harry Rimmelspach, claim agent.

The 50-ton car, traveling at a speed variously estimated at from 30 to 50 miles an hour, struck the bus in the middle, lifting the top from the body and flinging it 50 feet down the roadway. The electric car hurtled the chassis and ran into a ditch, lighting atop the splintered wreckage with two passengers pinned beneath the trucks and the others trapped in their seats.

Four ambulances at Bellevue were summoned and passing motorists aided in extricating the bodies and conveying the injured to hospitals.

CONFESSES ROBBERIES

Shaken by his experiences in the bus crash here Tuesday which killed 17 passengers outright, Teddy O'Bravski, of Brooklyn, confessed during the night to two bank robberies before his name was added to the death list early Wednesday morning.

Seriously injured in a hospital, O'Bravski fought for his life until he realized it was hopeless and then admitted that he committed a bank robbery in Detroit last summer and another in California some time previously.

He did not say which banks he robbed nor how much money was obtained.

MISSING STUDENT IS LOCATED IN ILLINOIS

Peoria, Ill.—(AP)—Walford Kerola, 25, Bradley college student, whose home is in Iron Mountain, Mich., was found wandering about the streets early after being missing since Friday. At the city jail where he was taken, he refused to eat or to give an account of his whereabouts since his disappearance. He will undergo a mental examination police said.

FIVE KILLED IN TWO RAILROAD ACCIDENTS

Thomaston, Conn.—(AP)—The engineer, fireman and one passenger were killed and five passengers injured when a local train from Waterbury to Winsted over the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, was derailed at Castle's bridge, seven miles north of here Wednesday morning.

2 DIE IN ILLINOIS

Mounds, Ill.—(AP)—Two trainmen were killed, two were injured and an undetermined number of passengers suffered minor injuries Tuesday night when the Florida, fast Illinois central passenger train from Chicago to Florida, crashed into a freight train one mile south of Mounds.

The accident occurred when the passenger train, 29 minutes late, struck the freight train as it pulled out of a siding main line, the crew thinking the Florida had passed.

COULDN'T SEE GIRLS SUFFER—KILLS THEM

Munfordville, Ky.—(AP)—A father attacked his two little daughters with a hammer Tuesday, fatally wounding them, "because I couldn't stand to see them suffer," he said. The girls were 10 and 12 years old. They were taken to a hospital where they died Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

DASHING GAUCHO OF ARGENTINE TURNS OUT TO BE PLOWMAN

Picturesque, Romantic Cowboy Died Off Long Ago, Writer Finds

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—There is romance on the pampas of the Argentine, but it is the romance of the plow and not of the dashing gaucho whose type has been resurrected by Valentino and Douglas Fairbanks.

The picturesque, romantic, native cowboy died off long ago and offers even less material for the novel and the movies than our own cowboys of today. The vaquero, as the pampas cow man is known, rides a trick saddle and swings a mean lasso, but he is only a peon on horseback.

The people of the pampas are divided into two classes: the few wealthy estancia owners and the peons who do all the work. By peons, one does not mean victims of the peonage system as the term is generally understood in the United States—a condition of semi-slavery. In South America the peon is merely the unskilled farm laborer.

Life seldom holds much for the peon. He lives meekly, without the comforts, good treatment or pay of a farmhand in the United States. Generally he lives with others in long sheds, often made of adobe though sometimes of brick, with four or five other peons in the same room. His wages average 60 pesos a month, which is about $24, and he spends extravagantly on pay day.

But the peon appears satisfied with the bare necessities of life. His condition is commonly better than that of the tenant farmer on the pampas.

The ranches, some of which are tremendous in size and operated like so many feudal estates, often rent out land on a percentage basis and thousands of Italian immigrants, especially those from Piedmont, have become tenant farmers. They live very poorly through the year on credit; sometimes a tenant farmer is found subsisting only on mate, an unpalatable tea raised and brewed in this country, and galleta, a kind of hard tack. Baked white corn is also a common fare. He has few if any comforts. In an exceptionally good year he may be able to kill a couple of bullocks, and a few pigs for a long spell of sausages.

Everyone in a tenant farmer's family works hard. Here a boy of 15 is like to appear to be a man of 30. Boys of 12 are to be seen pushing plows, and tenant farmers spend much time and labor in a continual fight against pests.

But although some immigrants are willing to adopt this kind of life, most of them stay at Buenos Aires where a few, by hard work, brains and luck, become millionaires.

Pampas means plains. This region is comparable to our own grain belt and its development is following along the same lines. It produces wheat, corn and cattle. Physically, it is a broad, vast area of treeless grass-covered plain with enough water and rainfall to permit grain growing, up to the point where the western and southern fringes resolve first into fields fit only for sheep grazing and then mere desert.

In the north is the wooded Chaco region, its forests as yet untapped through lack of railroads. With millions of acres of highly productive lands, the pampas have become the most highly developed section of South America.

They still have great possibilities for further development, although Europe's demand for grain has long since begun a development similar to that of our own grain states in the last 50 years.

Railroads or highways eventually will be built into the great unoccupied and undeveloped regions; the flatness of the country is inviting for such projects. At the moment, however, a campaign for a national highway system is being opposed by British interests controlling the Argentine railroads. In towns along the railroad across the pampas from the Andes, one observed far more bricks and much less mud in house construction than the Hoover party had seen in other rural sections of South America. And many automobiles. But in the long stretches between, alongside cultivated acres, there were ducks, flamingoes, snitches, geese and other wild birds more difficult to identify.

Pure-bred stock has been introduced to enrich the cattle herds and has thus increased Argentine wealth, due to demands of American and British packing plants which wanted more meat on their animals.

There are no grain elevators now, but the government is planning to erect some. It is also trying to reduce freight rates, which would help Argentine grain growers.

Woodsman-Poet

Lew Sarett, one of America's interesting men, will lecture at Peabody hall Thursday night under auspices of Appleton Teachers' association.

SARETT HAS LED COLORFUL LIFE

Woodsman-poet Reads and Lectures Here Thursday Evening

Lew Sarett, poet, woodsman and forest ranger, who will speak at Peabody hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the Appleton Teachers' association, is one of the unique literary figures of America. His life is kaleidoscopic. He came out of the forests of the Lake Superior country as a boy. In Chicago he was a newsboy, a bundle-carrier in a department store, and a worker in a sweatshop. He knew poverty, loneliness and hunger. Later he found his way back to the North and in turn became life-saver, a teacher of woodcraft in sportsmen's camps, a naturalist, a guide in the Canadian North, and a United States ranger in the Rocky Mountains. After he received his education at the University of Michigan, Beloit college, the University of Illinois, and Harvard University, he became first an instructor at the University of Illinois and later a professor at Northwestern university.

The poet knows the wilderness of the great Northwest; he has lived with the Indians; he knows their superstitions, traditions and weird ceremonies. It was made an honorary member of the tribe of the Chipewyans and by them was christened "Lone Caribou." He has paddled more than 12,000 miles over Lake Superior, the waters of Hudson's Bay, and the Mississippi. Out of his colorful life grew Lew Sarett's poetry, which he will read in Appleton Thursday night.

EAGLES TAKE PART IN RADIO PROGRAM

Solos and Duets Go Into Air from Milwaukee Station

Members of the Appleton aerie of Eagles were disappointed Tuesday night when the period of broadcast allotted them on the inaugural program of the state aerie, over station WTMJ, was shortened. Programs of all aeries in the state were curtailed so that every lodge might have representation on the air.

The program by the local representatives included "Regimental March" by Joseph and Frank Doerflinger, two whistling solos, "Kuku Waltz" and "Mother Macree" by George Lausman, a duet, "Sing Me to Sleep" by Miss Marie Alfert and Miss Florence Schaefer; a solo, "Danny Boy" by Miss Alfert. Thirty nine telegrams had been received voting for the Appleton aerie up to the time for the Appleton delegation's return.

GROGERS TALK OVER MERCHANDISE PROBLEM

Problems of cooperative buying and advertising for the coming two weeks were discussed at the meeting of the service grocers held Monday evening at the Grindbach and Bosch grocery, Richmond-st. Eight grocers attended. The next meeting probably will be held at the Plette grocery on W. College-ave.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Generally fair tonight and Thursday; continued cold tonight; not quite so cold Thursday afternoon.

GENERAL WEATHER

The low pressure over storm, area crossed the lake region during the past 24 hours, its center passing by a few miles west of here late yesterday afternoon. Its passage was attended by widespread rains or snows. The high pressure over the northwest is moving southward down the plains states attended by a cold wave. This "high" should cause generally fair weather in this section tonight and Thursday, with slightly lower temperatures to develop. Another "low" appears to be developing over the southern Rockies but it is too early to predict its further development.

TAKE INTEREST IN SCHOOLS, IS PLEA OF SCHOOL LEADER

Outside Activities Are Harmful Unless Carefully Directed, He Points Out

BY EDWIN C. BROOME (Superintendent of Schools, Philadelphia)

(Editor's Note: Dr. Broome is chairman of the National Education association's committee of ten appointed to investigate the use in the schools of materials provided by outside agencies.)

Philadelphia—(P)—The public schools are the public's schools. This has frequently been said; and it is true. For that reason the public should take a keen interest in the schools; should see that they receive adequate support, that they are efficiently conducted, and that the hand of the exploiter is restrained.

Equally, the public courts, the public courts. But who would think of using the courts to advertise some particular brand of soup, or to ventilate the pet notion of some voluntary organization? But these are similar to what some groups or individuals expect of the public schools.

Let us as citizens reason a few moments along these lines: Don't we own the schools? Yes, we do; but you or I do not in the individual sense in which we own our homes. We are only individual members of the entire community of the city and state in our ownership of the public schools.

You may paint your house any color you choose, put up signs advertising any commodity, if you like, or invite any group, political, religious, or social, to hold meetings in your home; you may invite your friends in to have a card party, and pass around the hat for the benefit of the orphan's home, but when you attempt to do these things in your schools you will find thousands of co-owners who will object to your use of their schools for advertising your goods, or holding meetings for expressing your political, social, religious theories, or collecting funds for your pet enterprise.

The public schools are the public's schools, in the sense that they belong to all the people. The children are not a voluntary audience that can leave if they don't like the performance. They are compelled to attend school by the attendance law, and for the purpose of receiving instruction in a program of study prescribed by state regulations; and nobody has the right to curtail, alter, or extend the program except the board of public education to which that authority is legally delegated.

The child has four sacred rights—his right to an education, to play and recreation, to religious training, and to a decent home life. Anything that interferes with these not only injures the child but endangers the life of the nation.

WATER ASSESSMENTS APPROVED BY BOARD

But Collections Will Not Be Made Until Owners Begin Using Water

A precedent with reference to water main assessments was established Tuesday afternoon by the board of public works when it reviewed assessments against property abutting on E. Fremont-st. in which a main was laid last summer to supply water to the municipal golf course. Because of protests against laying the main and against the assessment, the board will recommend to the city council that assessments stand but that collections be not made until property owners wish to connect with the mains.

The board recognized that the main installed might not be used generally for five or ten years and that it probably was unfair to tax property holders for the installation which was made to satisfy needs of the golf course. But rather than pay the cost out of the general fund and let property owners escape paying assessments, the assessments be made and collected when owners of the property connect with the mains.

STOP WORK ON SUBWAY TO CHANGE MACHINERY

Excavating for the subway beneath the Chicago and Northwestern railway company tracks on Wisconsin-ave was stopped Wednesday while the contractors moved equipment from the East side of the track to the west side but was stopped when wet clay was encountered. Work then was started on the east side and has been completed.

ONE PERSON OBJECTS TO PROSPECT-AVE LIGHT

Only one property owner on W. Prospect-ave has registered definite objection to installation of a street light near the Joseph J. Koffend, Jr., residence, according to a survey made by Mayor A. C. Rue recently. The light was ordered by the council several weeks ago and protests were registered against it. City officials then decided to make a survey of the situation with the result that only one person definitely objected.

TRADE STAMPS AT Y COLLECTORS MEETING

The Stamp club of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will meet at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening to trade stamps, according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary. The new 1929 stamp catalogue has been received at the association building and a study of new issues is to be made.

The Lathemcraft club met at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon. Members are working on individual projects, such as leather belts, purses and bill folder.

POSTOFFICE NEEDS NEW ROOF, POSTAL EMPLOYEES BELIEVE

That the postoffice needs a new roof, and needs it badly, is the consensus of opinion among postal employees. A stroll through the building on any recent day would have shown an observer why the postal workers feel that way.

About three feet away from the desk of H. J. Franck, assistant postmaster, stands a pail, catching water dripping through a small hole in the ceiling. Another hole in the ceiling is letting water down into the office of F. F. Wettengel, acting postmaster.

But the most conclusive proof was advanced a few days ago when a clerk in the rear room was forced to put up an umbrella to work at his desk.

An appeal for a new roof probably will be made as soon as possible, it was indicated by postal authorities.

OPEN SEAT SALE FOR HEIFETZ CONCERT

Expect Quick Sale of Tickets to Hear World Famous Violinist

The mail order sale of tickets for the Heifetz concert at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Feb. 11 will start at Belling drugstore on Friday, according to Dean Carl J. Waterman of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, which is sponsoring the Appleton appearance of the great artist. The regular ticket sale will start next Monday, also at Belling's.

It is expected that all seats for the Heifetz concert will be sold out as quickly as the Gall-Curci house was last year.

Heifetz, no longer the boy prodigy who gave his first concert at the age of nine, is now a mature artist whose place among the truly great musicians is firmly established, not only in America but throughout the world. The 12 years which have intervened since he made his debut in this country have been a continuous triumphal progress through France, Great Britain, Germany, Austria, Russia, Scandinavia, Australia and Mexico.

DRS. MARSHALL, REED TALK TO MEDICAL MEN

Dr. Victor F. Marshall and Dr. C. D. Reed will present a paper on "The Treatment of Fractures of the Ankle Joint" at the meeting of the Outagamie Medical society at Hotel Northern Thursday evening. The paper will emphasize especially the early return of the function of the disabled member. A dinner will precede the program.

ROTARY LEARNS ABOUT WORK WITH CRIPPLES

A description of the Curative Work Shop, Milwaukee, and its work with crippled children and adults was given members of Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon by Miss Edith Evans of the work shop, who illustrated her talk with motion pictures of the school, its pupils and methods of treating patients. The meeting was in charge of Dr. D. M. Gallagher, chairman of the Crippled Children committee.

NATIONAL SCOUT HEAD IS BANK PRESIDENT

Walter W. Head, president of the National Council for Scouts, banker, farmer and philanthropist, has been named president and director of the State Bank of Chicago, according to word received here by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. Mr. Head is sailing from San Francisco soon with his wife for a vacation in the Hawaiian Islands before taking up his new duties. He has been an enthusiastic scout worker for many years, and attended a meeting of Region Seven at Chicago last week with local scout leaders.

CONCERT BY BAND IS APPRECIATED

An appreciative audience heard the concert given Tuesday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel by members of the 120th field artillery band, Edward F. Mumm, director. Soprano solos by Miss Florence Roate and dancing numbers by Vesper Chamberlain and Virginia Rosegood featured the evening's program. The band numbers also were appreciated by the audience.

BEG PARDON

Nomination papers are being circulated for Lawrence Brickman, 808 N. Division-st, for nomination, 3rd alderman, not for Edward Brickman, as was stated in the Post-Crescent Tuesday. The Post-Crescent was misinformed as to the candidate's name.

PROPOSES TO STOP GAS "BOOTLEGGING"

Badger Oil Inspector Explains Plans to Set Officers at Boundaries

Madison—(P)—Explaining his departmental budget to a joint committee, E. Le Clair, state oil inspector, revealed that he contemplates addition of several gas and oil "prohibition agents" along the Illinois and Iowa borders, in the state capital Tuesday.

He said that "bootlegging" of cheaper oils and gas has been discovered along the Illinois line from the state in which there is no gasoline tax. While Iowa has a higher gasoline tax than Wisconsin, there is still some bootlegging across that border.

"Another thing rising now is the mixing of kerosene with condensed natural gas," Mr. Kersten said. "Testers have found the fuel turning to almost straight kerosene after a period in the station tanks."

The senate approved the second Wisconsin good will tour when a group will visit 11 states in the southeast Feb. 25 to March 9. It passed Senator Severson's resolution endorsing this tour.

Senator Peter J. Smith, Eau Claire, sought repeal of the "small loans" act passed during the "last session. Under this act finance companies making loans on furniture, automobiles, and character loans, have operated at a legal rate of interest much higher per annum than banks are permitted to charge.

By a vote of 12 to 11, the senate rejected Senator Robert Caldwell's proposal to create joint committees of the two houses.

FIREMEN BATTLE 5 FIRES ON TUESDAY

Four Blazes Are Confined to Chimneys; Fifth Is in Rubbish Pile

While the majority of people were seeking shelter in their homes and offices Tuesday from the snow storm which swept over this community for the greater part of the morning and afternoon, Appleton's firemen were out battling one blaze after another.

Fire alarms were answered in each instance, however. Four of the fires were in chimneys and the fifth was in a rubbish pile.

The first call was turned in at 11:45 a. m. from the W. Guenther residence, 1358 W. Prospect-ave. The fire was confined to the chimney, and was quickly extinguished. Rubbish, burning in a basket in the basement of the G. W. Jones residence, 225 Park-ave, resulted in the second run, for the department at 1:05 in the afternoon. There was no damage.

At 5:45 a chimney fire at the Math Mueller residence, 1023 W. Wisconsin-ave, occupied by Peter Mueller, brought the firemen out for the third time. Damage was negligible in this case, too.

The next alarm was received at 6:40 from the Konz Box Lumber Co. office, 177 W. College-ave. A raging chimney fire, which sent out clouds of sparks, was in progress there when the department arrived, but it was quickly out.

The last alarm came five minutes later. The cause was a chimney fire at the Jacob Welter residence, 1708 W. Jefferson-st.

A young man who turned in the alarm from the lumber company reported that the factory was on fire, instead of just the chimney. Consequently the department sent out its entire equipment to the factory.

"When turning in fire alarms, people should be particularly careful to give us the exact extent of the fire," said George P. McGowan, fire chief. "In the call we received from the lumber company, we were under the impression that the fire was in the factory proper instead of in the chimney, and we sent out a full force."

"The department not only is put to an unnecessary expense in a case like this, but more danger is involved both to firemen and pedestrians, and less protection is available should another alarm be turned in while so much of the department's equipment is outside."

WETTENGEL GETS LETTER FROM "IT" GIRL IN "MOVIES"

Fred F. Wettengel, acting postmaster, received a letter this week from a Clara Bow, popular motion picture actress, thanking him for forwarding to her a piece of air mail. Fred isn't telling anybody about it, however, for he doesn't want people to know he is corresponding with "movie" actresses. That's his secret, and he's going to keep it, he said.

Miss Bow wrote: "Dear Mr. Wettengel: Your note enclosing a first flight air mail cover to me is in front of me, and I have come to the conclusion that if there are many obliging folks such as you in Appleton, Wis., it must be a very fine place in which to live. "Thank you very much indeed for your trouble, and I certainly hope that your new air mail service will be source of much comfort and pride to all of Appleton. Gratefully, Clara Bow."

YOUNG EXPLORER TO APPEAR HERE

Minnesota Boy Scout to Tell of Experiences in Africa

David R. Martin, Jr., of Austin, Minn., one of the three boy scouts selected by the National scout council to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, explorers, on an expedition to South Africa, will speak here to valley council boy scouts and other people interested, on his travels and adventures in Africa, at the annual birthday party of Boy Scouts of America, Feb. 9, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

The young scout took part in many big game hunts. On their return they wrote a book on their experiences.

PACKARD IS LEADER OF SCOUT CAMPAIGN

Council Hopes to Raise $6,500 for Intensive Program in 1929

George H. Packard has been elected general chairman of the valley council boy scout financial campaign which will get underway here Feb. 19, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. The drive is to continue for three days, Feb. 19, 20 and 21, and the goal is $6,500, according to Mr. Clark.

Members of the executive committee of the campaign are F. N. Belanger, William Buchanan, Dr. J. A. Holmes, B. J. Rohan, E. E. Cahall, Frank Younger and William Falatic. The committee will meet at 5 o'clock Friday evening at the Hotel Northern to talk over campaign matters, and to select team captains and workers, according to Mr. Clark. It is hoped the drive this year will be the most successful ever staged, and the campaign will be carried out among the citizens of the city who are truly interested in the Boy Scout of America movement. It is essential that the quota be reached this year, since the scout movement in the valley council has increased to nearly twice the membership during the past year, according to members of the committee.

There now are over 450 boy scouts in the valley council while Dec. 31, 1927, there were 231 scouts. Five new valley council troops were organized during the past year and other new ones are now being organized here and in surrounding cities and communities.

PLAN FOR ANNUAL YACHT CLUB DANCE

The annual benefit dance of the Appleton Yacht club will be held at Rainbow Garden, Monday evening, Feb. 4. The committee in charge is arranging a special program and members and their friends are invited. Gib Horst's orchestra will furnish the music.

SEEK NEW MEMBERS FOR H. S. PATROLS

A general discussion concerning improvement of the senior high school junior police patrol took place at a meeting of the patrol Tuesday afternoon. Due to the graduation of two of the members at the close of the first semester, two new members will be selected soon.

The patrol was organized about two months ago and consists of twelve boys with Charles Schaefer as captain. The group regulates traffic in and out of the school during noon hours and keeps order at athletic games.

ATTEMPTS TO PASS BUS AND COLLIDES WITH IT

Attempting to pass a bus in the 500 block on N. Oneida-st about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, A. H. Melzer, 709 E. Brewster-st., who was driving south, collided with the bus, damaging the right rear fender on his car. The bus was not damaged, according to a report at police headquarters. The driver of the bus was Herman Eggert, 1816 N. Drew-st.

KING IMPROVING

London—(P)—It was officially stated at Buckingham palace Wednesday morning that King George's progress was being maintained. It was not expected that any further bulletin would be issued before Thursday night.

EDITOR WANTS ROAD BUILDERS TO GRADE FARMERS' DRIVEWAYS

Assemblyman Burnham Also Would Provide More Money for Highway Boards

Madison—(AP)—Road contractors put in highways past the farmer's door, and, in Wisconsin, leave the door just as remote from the road as it was before the improvement because the new stretch has no connecting driveway to the farm-yard. Assemblyman D. F. Burnham, editor of the Waupun Post, said Wednesday.

He has a bill before the lower house which would compel the contractors to put in the culverts and grade up an approach to the farm lots.

Minnesota makes this requirement in the road contracts. Mr. Burnham said.

County boards would have the authority to fix the amount of money that the counties would spend in compensating members of the county highway committees under a bill which Assemblyman D. F. Burnham, of Waupun, may introduce. Under present law, the amount of money that may be paid to any member for salary is $500 annually. Assemblyman Burnham reports that in many instances members of these county committees work sufficient number of days to more than exhaust this $500, so that they work part of the time without compensation.

GET RID OF WASTE
Senator Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee, contemplates the introduction of a joint resolution for appointment of an independent committee to study possibilities of elimination of waste in governmental units.

Sen. Duncan explained that there is considerable debate regarding necessity of township governmental units. Those who say that the township governments could be eliminated contend the county government could easily eliminate the township officers now handling them.

Again, the Milwaukee school board out, some people believe that a county board of education could replace the numerous city, village, and township school boards within a county.

It is for the purpose of having a group of legislators give this subject a two-year study that Sen. Duncan will introduce his measure.

Times are changing, he said. When our present system of government was devised, transportation and communication were slow and it was necessary to have a local control. With the present perfection of communication and transportation the order of things can be changed, he believes.

ASKS REVENGE EVEN IF IT MEANS JAIL TERM FOR HIMSELF

Wautoma—(AP)—Revenge, to William Mischka, is sweet enough to be worth a jail sentence. He has been bound over to circuit court for trial on a charge of transporting liquor, and so has Henry Schluter. Mischka and Schluter drove here from Marquette-co with a bottle of moonshine. The bottle was Mischka's. He hid it. When Mischka returned, it was gone.

Tricked, Mischka went to the district attorney and demanded a warrant for Schluter's arrest. "You're liable to arrest yourself for having the liquor," he was told.

"I don't care," retorted Mischka. "I'm willing to go to jail if he goes with me."

He has a good chance of having his wish fulfilled.

STAGE AND SCREEN

DANCING DAUGHTERS RETURN
Three very young girls, who choose different paths to an ultimate goal of happiness provide the motivation for "Our Dancing Daughters," which returns to Brins Appleton Theatre Thursday and Friday.

The production, with its modernistic theme, is set in an impressionistic background and was filmed up on a scale of lavishment that brings to the screen a new triumph in cinema artistry.

Directed by Harry Beaumont from an original story written by Josephine Lovett, "Our Dancing Daughters" has a unique plot that moves swiftly with the tempo of daring youth. Photographed with the newly-perfected incandescent lighting equipment, the first time it has been used exclusively in any production, the film blazes a new trail in spectacular and pictorial beauty.

With Joan Crawford, Dorothy Sebastian and Anita Page in the leading roles, the M-G-M feature has a stellar cast. In support of the principal players such screen artists as Nils Asther, Kathryn Williams, Eddie Nugent, Doris Cummings, Humbley Gordon, Evelyn Hall and Sam De Grasse are seen.

The plot concerns a reckless flapper who kisses freely and loses the affections of the man she loves because of gossip that follows in the wake of her madcap adventures. Her chum a girl who has loved, not wisely, but too well obtains forgiveness from her fiancé and is married only to find that her husband looks upon her former male friends with a suspicion he cannot erase from his mind.

The two girls, despairing of happiness, attend a gay bon-voyage party where the gold-digger, who married the man the first girl loved, creates a sensational scene. The husband, his eyes opened to his wife's duplicity, realizes he really loves the girl he rejected. In a moment of drunken frenzy, the gold-digger wife hurls herself down a flight of stairs and is killed.

The tragedy brings both couples to the realization that life is more than a whirl of pleasures and at last find happiness in domesticity.

MR. JOEY SANGOR, PUGILIST, GUEST OF GOVERNOR KOHLER

State Executive Spends Pleasant Hour With Noted Milwaukee Boxer

Madison—(AP)—Joey Sangor, boxer of note in these parts, called on Governor Walter J. Kohler last Thursday, the governor said. They talked fastidiously and visited informally for some time according to the executive. The visit had nothing to do with the bill now before the legislature for decision boxing bouts in Wisconsin, Gov. Kohler said. It has previously been known that the governor is a fight fan, and has enjoyed seeing some of the "battles of the century".

When Joey Sangor called on Gov. Kohler a few days ago, the governor said "his card came in and I realized who was calling." Asked if the prize fighting fraternity had started carrying calling cards, the governor said he knew of one, but meant the office card that bears each visitor's name. Then it became known that each visitor to the executive offices who wished to see the governor, suffers his name to be placed on a card that is kept for reference. The card goes into the inner office to advise the executive who "awaits without".

As governor and Mrs. Kohler entertain members of the legislature at informal dinners during the early session, there will be eighteen or twenty of the lawmakers in each group. The executive mansion dinner room will accommodate only that many persons, the governor has found. As most of the legislators have not brought their wives or families to Madison, the dinner will be principally for the lawmakers only.

Miss Gladys McGuire, the only clerk to leave the governor's office when the administration changed, has returned to Gov. Kohler's staff temporarily from the state railroad commission, where she went after the first of the year. She returned at the request of the executive, because of the early-term and legislative session opening work.

POORLY COOKED PORK CAUSES TRICHINOSIS
Madison—(AP)—Making public the fact that three cases of trichinosis have appeared in Madison, the state board of health announced today that the disease could be avoided by sufficient cooking of pork to kill parasites that carry it.

"This is the essence of whatever injunction should be issued as a warning against contracting trichinosis," the announcement said.

Laboratory experiments have definitely established that three persons who were ill here were suffering from the disease, which, the health board said, is generally attributed to insufficiently cooked pork.

Trichinosis has not lately occurred commonly in Wisconsin. It is a disease that is not transmitted from one person to another.

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture.

A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

The brake construction on the front wheels also is unusual. Here the brakes are enclosed without the use of a leather boot or sliding joint to protect the linkage between the brake rods and the mechanism on the brake plate.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a regulating screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

RIPON CANCELS GAME WITH NEENAH HIGHS

Neenah—The basketball game scheduled with Ripon high school for March 8 has been cancelled, according to word received Wednesday. Coach Ole Jorgenson. An effort will be made to secure another team to fill the date.

Neenah, Oconto and West De Pere now are leading the conference. Neenah has played four games and won them all; Oconto has won five games and West De Pere has won two conference games.

Dream Castle Was Tomb

Madison Square Garden, the fruit of his dreams, became a regal mausoleum for Rex Rickard as the promoter's body lay in state in the center of the vast structure. Pictured above is the impressive setting as the casket lay in state. Framed by palms and lavish floral tributes, it rested in the glare of the same floodlights that have shown down on the superlative spectacles which Rickard managed. Above it hung the battery of giant amplifiers that have carried Rickard's voice throughout the hall.

KOHLER WOULD ADD TO POOR MAN'S EXEMPTION

Milwaukee—Gov. Governor Walter J. Kohler advocated an increase in the income tax exemption for those who are least able to pay the cost of government, in a speech before members of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association here Tuesday night. He said he had recommended speedily action by the legislature in the matter of a change in the income tax law so that the working man may have the benefit at the earliest possible moment.

The governor expressed belief that the present income tax law should be amended to remove the burden which is now placed on the shoulders of men of small means.

"Workingmen should have larger exemptions for their dependents to the end that the burden should be decreased rather than increased with the size of the family," he declared.

The executive warned against an immediate and hastily considered increase in the gasoline tax. He said a survey of all highways in the state should first be made to determine what character of road surfaces are needed.

HOOVER RESTS BEFORE
TAKING ROD AND REEL

Miami Beach, Fla.—(AP)—A day of rest in preparation for long hours with a rod and reel among the Florida keys had been arranged for President-elect Hoover Wednesday.

Settled at the C. Penney estate on Belle Isle in Biscayne bay, after the train ride from Washington and the strenuous reception by some 75,000 persons on their arrival in Miami, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover looked forward to a month's diversion before their

THIS HAS HAPPENED
ASHTORETH ASHE is involved in a fascinating and rather dangerous conversation with HOLLIS HART. They are quite alone in a little house on the mountain, with the shutters drawn, and the place tightly barricaded. Outside a hurricane rages.

Ashtoreth is a stenographer, and Mr. Hart is her millionaire employer. The little house on the mountain is his. And the scene of their romantic sojourn is an island in the West Indies—the loveliest island in the world. Ashtoreth stopped there for a few hours, when the cruise ship on which she was traveling put in the harbor. To her delighted amazement, she met Mr. Hart strolling through the village streets. He had visited the island en route to South America, and, becoming infatuated with its beauty, had rented a plantation and a house full of servants. Ashtoreth goes to his place for dinner, and purposely misses the boat, so that she may have an adventure with him. He treats her with charming deference, and makes tender love, while she seeks, in vain, to wring an actual proposal from him. He christens her "Orchid" because she reminds him, he says, of the flowers. Because she is so exquisite, and remote, and cool.

Ashtoreth tells him a great deal of her early life, and is recounting now the story of her father's death, and telling of a letter which was her father's bequest to her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI
Ashtoreth was remembering that Maizie's hard-earned money had paid for her tropical trip. That Maizie's devotion had nursed her when she was ill. That Maizie's love enfolded her every hour of the day and night. . . . And, remembering, she felt low and grateful. Unworthy for Maizie to mother and cherish.

But she had started her story, and she would finish it.

"I love my mother, with all my heart," she told herself. "Is it wrong that I should know her, also, for what she is?"

And aloud she said: "Daddy had strange ideas about morality. You know how everybody thinks that if a woman is loyal to her husband, and works for him, and never looks at anybody else but him—why, they just naturally call her a moral woman. Don't they? Everybody does."

Mr. Hart nodded.

"Why, I suppose so," he said. "Well, daddy didn't," she declared. "He thought that any woman who got married, just to get herself supported, was exactly as bad as if she'd never married the man at all. But just lived with him."

"Here's one paragraph from the letter he wrote me. I can quote every word of it because I know it all by heart:

"If you trust exclusively to your youthful charms for your provision in life," he said, "and if your cunning is further prompted by your mother, you will have just the same aim as a courtesan, Ashtoreth. Only you will be wiser and less honest."

Ashtoreth paused to explain. "I found the letter," she said, "three days after daddy died. He had tucked it under some things in my bureau drawer. It was a big white envelope, all stuck up with red-sealing wax. And it said on it: 'For Ashtoreth; a personal letter. To be opened after her father's death.'"

"That was long before Judge Lindsey and everybody started talking about coon cotti marriage. But daddy quoted something that he said Nietzsche said. 'If married couples did not live together,' he said, 'happy marriages would be more frequent.' And after that he wrote, 'To be sure, with love a tragedy. In marriage there is inevitable satiety.' And he advised me, if I loved a man a great deal, to refuse to live with him."

Hollis pursed his lips reflectively. "That was pretty strong fodder for a 16-year-old girl," he observed. "Well, he said that women like to believe that love can do everything," expounded Ashtoreth. "That it is a superstition peculiar to us. And that the sooner I found out how helpless and blundering even the best and deepest love is, the better off I'd be. And he said that love destroys, rather than saves."

"Do you suppose," asked Hollis, "that he felt that your mother's love for him had destroyed him?"

Ashtoreth hesitated. "Well," she said, "I think mother's devotion was a sort of suffocating thing. Mother isn't what you'd call an inspirational person, Hollis."

"Did your father read Nietzsche a great deal?" inquired Ashtoreth. "Would you call him a student of Nietzsche's philosophy?"

"Why yes, I suppose so. Daddy read a lot," explained Ashtoreth. "Hollis held her hands in his. "And don't you know," he asked her, "that Nietzsche preached a decadent philosophy? The philosophy of gloom and horror. Now, my dear, I wouldn't hurt your feelings for the world. And I've no doubt your father was a remarkable man, and a wonderful father. . . . But you know, it seems, Orchid, you're rather overlooking your mother. She sounds to me like a lovely, wholesome soul. And it's rather a dread thing you know, child, when a young girl gets to feeling so very superior to the mother who bore her."

her. "So don't spoil my good opinion of you."

"I wonder," she remarked, changing the subject suddenly, "if it's ever going to stop blowing. Maybe I won't be leaving tomorrow after all. I should think the whole side of the mountain would be an absolute washout."

"It probably will be," he admitted. "How would you like to stay a little longer?"

"I'd be fearfully compromised," she declared, "but I certainly would love it."

"You're compromised already," he said. "Wait until your pious friends learn that you've visited with me for a week!"

He laughed boyishly. . . . "What will Sadie say?" he asked. But Ashtoreth did not want to talk about Sadie.

"Oh, she'd say plenty," she admitted. "But I don't propose broadcasting this little stop-over, you know. Hollis, I'm not going to WNAC and make a speech. Or hand out a statement to the press. What makes you think my pious friends are going to learn about it?"

"Pious friends," he told her slyly, "have strange and devious ways of finding out what we least want them to know. Haven't you discovered that?"

"I don't believe I ever tried to keep things from people before," she answered.

"W-w-wee-ee!" shrieked the wind. "W-w-wee-ee-ee!" . . . And they fell silent, to listen. It was meaning now like a lunatic. Mournfully, as if it repented the devastation it had wrought.

Ashtoreth surprised herself when she spoke again.

"I mean," she said, "I'm always keeping things from people. . . . I suppose everybody pretends — but I'm the worst counterfeit that ever lived! It was a preposterous lie for me to say I never tried to keep things from people. To tell the truth, Hollis, it's the bluest thing I do."

She laughed nervously.

"It's this uncanny wind that's making me so truthful," she confessed. "It's as if God was flying all around the place. . . . I mean I've been making-believe all my life. I'm always trying to keep things from people. My poverty, for instance. The fact that I've never been very much to school — I didn't tell you, Hollis, that mother and I bought fur coats and a walnut bedroom set with the money daddy put away for me."

"I don't believe I ever tried to keep things from people before," she answered.

"W-w-wee-ee!" shrieked the wind. "W-w-wee-ee-ee!" . . . And they fell silent, to listen. It was meaning now like a lunatic. Mournfully, as if it repented the devastation it had wrought.

Ashtoreth surprised herself when she spoke again.

"I mean," she said, "I'm always keeping things from people. . . . I suppose everybody pretends — but I'm the worst counterfeit that ever lived! It was a preposterous lie for me to say I never tried to keep things from people. To tell the truth, Hollis, it's the bluest thing I do."

college. And other clothes, besides. Dresses we couldn't afford, and hats, and shoes and things. In those days I'd rather put money on my back than in my head. I know better now, but it's too late."

Hollis laughed softly.

"You're having a perfect oratory of confessions," he said. "When the wind stops howling you'll be sorry you've told me so much about yourself."

Ashtoreth looked thoughtful.

"I'm a fraud, I know," she declared. "But I think almost everybody pretends they're nicer than they really are. If we didn't, I don't believe anybody would like us very much. It's only when you get to know people awfully well that you dare to be yourself with them. And I don't know that it's wise even then."

"For instance, if I hadn't pretended that I was a most unusual stenographer that first time you ever saw me, you'd never have thought about me again. If you'd known I was just a common, kitchen-garden working girl, you wouldn't have looked at me."

"Millionaires don't play with the hired help unless the hired help looks rather special. So I started showing off the very moment you noticed my ring. Talking about scarabs and Cleopatra. And pretending my mother was a student of antiquities. . . ."

Ashtoreth blushed. . . . "Of course, she said, 'girls always tell lies to men that interest them. When a woman is absolutely truthful with a man she either loves him beyond all reason or he hasn't registered at all.'"

Hollis came and stood in front of her.

"You're being absolutely truthful with me," he said.

She tried to laugh. To pass it off lightly. . . . "It's the wind," she declared. "I'm afraid to tell lies. I'm scared to death. God might strike me dead with a mango branch. Then what would I do?"

"Did you mean what you just said?" he demanded.

"Why, yes," she parried. "I guess so. I mean, I never told the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth before."

"Then I don't register at all?"

"Now, see here, Hollis Hart!" she protested. "If you think you can win a declaration out of me that way! . . . You know perfectly well you do."

He drew her to her feet. Then eyes, as they faced each other, were nearly on a level. Gray-green eyes blazing into blue ones. Hollis eyes reflected Ashtoreth, were a sort of scared to death. God might strike me dead with a mango branch. Then what would I do?"

"Did you mean what you just said?" he demanded.

"Why, yes," she parried. "I guess so. I mean, I never told the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth before."

"Then I don't register at all?"

"Now, see here, Hollis Hart!" she protested. "If you think you can win a declaration out of me that way! . . . You know perfectly well you do."

He drew her to her feet. Then eyes, as they faced each other, were nearly on a level. Gray-green eyes blazing into blue ones. Hollis eyes reflected Ashtoreth, were a sort of unholy blue, and extremely thrilling when they flashed like that.

"But you don't love me," he insisted. "Now you're telling more lies."

"How do you know I don't?" she asked. . . . and shrunk a little from the fire that blazed in those blue eyes.

"One doesn't banter about love," he said.

"I'm not bantering," she told him. . . . now he was going to tell her that he loved her! Loved her truly.

"Ah, Orchid!" he whispered "Little lovely Orchid, playing with love."

He put his hands on her shoulders and shook her playfully.

"You're a dishing fraud," he told her. "And I'm glad you're going home tomorrow."

"Why?" she asked. "Why am I a fraud? And why are you glad I'm going home?"

He answered her seriously.

"You're a fraud," he said, "for the same reason that you are beautiful and men want to love you. . . . Because you cannot help it, my dear. And I'm glad you're going home because I'm falling pretty seriously in love with you."

He smiled whimsically.

"Alas!" he moaned, "how easily things go wrong! A sigh too deep or a kiss too long. And then comes mist and a weeping rain. And life is never the same again."

"You don't really love me," she affirmed.

"Oh, my dear," he cried, "I'm old enough to be your father. It's ridiculous for us to talk of love. How could I hope to make a girl like you love me?"

Ashtoreth thought of a number of ways. . . . There was, for instance, that flying machine she had heard about. . . . The foreign car that waited outside the office, with the chauffeur in a crimson livery that matched the leather. . . . There was a little chateau somewhere in Normandy. . . . And a chalet in Switzerland.

All in all, there were a number of things calculated to increase Hollis' hopes. . . . They weren't, however, things a girl could mention at the moment.

(To Be Continued)

Does Ashtoreth get her man? The next chapter tells the tale.

MRS. ALEXANDER MALCOTT

would relieve me of my suffering. My principal trouble was with my liver, for my complexion was always sallow and I often said my color was as yellow as gold. I believe my entire system was filled with poison, resulting from chronic constipation and liver trouble. I became dreadfully nervous. I did not sleep well and was losing my strength and energy rapidly.

I also suffered terribly with intestinal indigestion and had always to be careful about my diet, but I would suffer with indigestion just the same. Gas would form and extend up around my heart and cause severe palpitation. I also had severe pains in my abdomen. These attacks would generally come on after meal time. Pains in my chest and shoulder also bothered me a great deal, and I was in a badly run-down and weakened condition.

"After taking two bottles of Sargol and one bottle of Sargol Soft Mass Pills I noticed a remarkable improvement in my condition. My appetite is splendid. I can now digest and assimilate food. I had dared touch before in months. I no longer suffer from those indigestion spells but the greatest blessing of all has been the relief from constipation from which I suffered for so many years. My complexion is now clear and healthy. I have gained some weight and feel greatly strengthened in every way."

"The Sargol Soft Mass Pills are wonderful. They are so gentle and yet so thorough and cause no bad after effects whatever."

The above statement was made by Mrs. Alexander Malcott, 1405 West 6th Street, Oklahoma City. Mrs. Malcott is a member of St. Luke's Methodist church and is highly respected by a large circle of friends. Sargol may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store.

THE MILK STRIKE

The battle between the milk producers of the states surrounding Chicago and milk dealers of that city is to be submitted to arbitration. It had reached a point where it was of vital concern to the health and wellbeing of Chicago. Without assuming to pass upon the merits of the dispute, we must confess that our sympathies on general principles are with the farmers. There is not a large difference between them and the milk dealers over price, and yet it means a great deal to the producer.

In a general way the farmer must depend for prices upon market conditions over which he has little or no control. This lack of control is admittedly at the bottom of the farm problem in all its phases. Difficulties in the way of organization and concerted action have up to this time prevented a solution of the problem.

The producers of milk in the territory surrounding Chicago are virtually dependent on the dictum of the dealers as to price. It is doubtless true, as they contend, that the margin of profit at the prices they are compelled to sell is small, and that they are fairly entitled to a larger profit. If we accept the proposition that farmers as a class are the least prosperous of all economic groups, then it follows that their returns are too small. The consumers and the public at large ought to be willing to grant them the right to increased returns, and to pay the price necessary to such returns.

The increase in price asked for by the producers who supply Chicago with milk would necessitate a relatively insignificant increase in the price charged the consumer and could legitimately be passed on to him. Furthermore, we do not believe that farmers would go to the extent they have in the present conflict if justice were not on their side. It is to be hoped the arbitration will be thorough and disinterested, and will take fully into account the question as to what is a fair return to the producer rather than what is a good price to the consumer.

PROSPERITY AND CONSCIENCE

"I am always an optimist," said Chief Justice Taft in a recent interview, "and I am firmly convinced that the American people will find a way to solve the perplexing problems which now beset them. Nevertheless, there are conditions confronting us today which merit the consideration of every citizen who has at heart the welfare of the nation and the future of his children and his children's children."

Asked what he considered the most disturbing element in our national life, he replied: "It is difficult to describe precisely, but it may be understood when I characterize it as the materialistic philosophy which places wealth and worldly success ahead of every other consideration in life. What can it profit a man to have accumulated millions if he has not at the same time maintained a clear conscience and acquired the goodwill and esteem of his fellow-citizens?"

There isn't anything to add to that. People who understand Justice Taft's comment probably agree with him and are doing their part to justify his optimism about this country. Those who do not understand it are the ones who are promoting the materialistic philosophy of which he speaks. It would be a worthy ambition for any real patriot to want to see his country both wealthy and conscientious, both prosperous and possessed of the esteem of its fellow-citizens in the world. The question that troubles many thoughtful persons is whether this is possible.

HELPING RURAL SCHOOLS

The weak spot in America's educational system is and always has been the insufficiency of rural schools. To a very limited extent here and there country children have been provided with facilities for high school instruction, but relatively the number reached by this attempt to place the farm population on a par with the city dwellers is exceedingly small. Provision in the country of school advantages comparable to those in the city presents difficult problems, but they are not insurmountable. It is largely a question of money, and back of this taxes. Union high schools can be built to take care of large areas and the children can be transported to and from them at public expense. All of the requirements for continuing rural education beyond the grades can easily be met with adequate funds.

Senator Cashman has introduced a bill in the legislature which proposes to extend state aid of $50 per pupil to all rural schools which offer the first two years of high school training. We think it is a measure entirely sound in principle, and that it ought to be passed. We would not attempt to say whether the financial provisions of the bill are correct or not. This is a matter for equitable determination, based on a number of facts.

However, we can see no objection to state aid. We think the rural districts are entitled to it. Farm taxes are already high and if the initiative is left to towns and counties progress will be slow. We could do nothing better for farm life in Wisconsin than to extend to it better educational facilities. We do not think they necessarily need to be the same as those in the city high school; they might place greater emphasis on the vocational side, but whatever the nature of the training it ought to seek to develop the intelligence and mental faculties of the pupil to the point where he will be a better agriculturist, or whatever trade or profession he may adopt, and otherwise contribute to the social and economic advancement of himself and the state.

FEUDAL LANDOWNERS

The biggest problem of Latin-America is the land problem, according to correspondents who accompanied Mr. Hoover on his big tour. There is plenty of land—more unoccupied area, perhaps, than anywhere else in the world, except Africa. But it is held by a few people, in vast estates. In Ecuador the land is said to be dominated by only about 1500 families, and in Argentina most of the land is held by 12,000 families. Great land-owners naturally tend to control the government.

This may be as bad as the feudal system of the Middle ages. It means virtual peonage for millions, and retarded development. Mexico has been grappling with the problem more seriously than any of her sister republics. Many owners, including some Americans, feel aggrieved. But such efforts on the whole are well-meant and far-sighted. The great difficulty is to find a fair and peaceful way to break up the big estates without revolution and confiscation.

EUROPE LOOKING UP

A department of commerce review of the European business situation shows real improvement and a good outlook. Financial stability, public and private, made a healthy growth last year. "In general," says the department, 1928 may be regarded as the close of the period of currency stabilization, and the violent exchange fluctuations which have so seriously affected European trading conditions in past years are now definitely eliminated."

With currency stabilized, the main thing for reconstruction is accomplished. Europe economically is now "all set to go." All that troubled continent needs now is peace. Not merely the peace of treaties and promises, but a peace fortified by disarmament on an extensive scale.

A Chinese competing in the talk marathon in Chicago gave up after 55 hours of chin wagging. To anyone who ever has tried to get laundry from a Chinaman without a ticket, this will be a trifle hard to understand.

I can't figure it out—is Governor Kohler trying to be a future president or the next king of England? He goes and steals Cui's idea of senatorial breakfast—only he calls 'em "executive dinners"—and then he does a fall from his prancing steed, a la prince of Wales. Seems to me he is trying to cover too much territory!

Here is one reason why "salesmen get gray": A young salesman was seen to turn away from a prospective buyer of an electric washing machine, a disgusted look on his face.
"She doesn't want an electric washing machine," the young man said. "I explained in detail just how to operate it, turning on the current, and showed her how it works, and finally she pointed to the hole in the bottom and asked: 'What is that for?'"
"To let the water out," I said.
"Oh, then it doesn't wash by electricity, does it, you have to use water?"

Wearily Willie, after a hearty lunch, turned to say good-bye to his hostess.
"What?" she cried. "Going already? Why, you haven't more than half mowed the lawn."

WHAT THE HEALTH AUTHORITIES NEVER TELL
The general run of health authorities in this country are still holding out for the non-infectious "cold." That is presumably an illness one gets from chilling or some such cause, and not from infection. No public health authority, I think, ventures to define or describe the illness, or to indicate how anybody, physician or layman, can distinguish such an illness from an infectious disease in case such distinction should seem necessary. No public health authority, I believe, would accept in good faith a report of illness or death from such a non-infectious disease, if a physician should choose a record "cold" as the nature of illness or the cause of death. No, these health officers who so obstinately insist that chilling or exposure does cause some kind of illness other than frostbite apparition, nor for purpose of vital statistics.

Here is a bulletin issued to the public by the health officer of a large city I find nine causes of "colds" listed, thus:
1. The contagious factor; passing it from one to another.
2. Lowered bodily resistance.
3. Overheating and uneven room temperature.
4. Insufficient humidity.
5. Fatigue and lack of exercise.
6. Proper diet.
7. Irregular bowel movements.
8. Irritant dust and smoke.
9. Lack of sleep.

The second cause—"lowered bodily resistance"—exists only in the imagination of the writer. There is no scientific evidence that there is any such thing as resistance. If the idea of the writer is trying to convey refers to immunity, he should say so. The trouble is that "lowered immunity" isn't so easy to toss off, if you have any scientific knowledge of immunity.
The first factor—"passing it from one to the other"—is really the only one in the list that is reasonably warranted by actual scientific evidence. The other seven factors in the list are wholly conjectural.

While the recent "flu" scare was on—and it was a scare, largely whopped up by the federal health bureau itself, through a penchant for giving out news—the head of that bureau got into print early and often with his rules for avoiding the influenza. He concocted no less than 11 rules and several of them were good rules for everybody to obey all the time, flu or no flu. But a few of them were not so sensible. See if you can pick out the sound ones from the list:
1. Avoid needless crowding; walk to and from work; avoiding overcrowded street cars, busses, etc.
2. Get as much open air and sun shine as you can.
3. Sleep with windows open; be sure homes well ventilated.
4. Avoid people who are coughing, sneezing or snuffing; do not cough or sneeze without using a handkerchief.
5. Wash your hands before eating; do not put fingers in mouth or nose. You may infect yourself by shaking hands or touching objects then carrying fingers to mouth or nose.
6. Do not use eating utensils others have used, unless the utensils are washed or sterilized. Avoid common drinking cups.
7. Keep up your general health, first, by using inside and outside plenty of clean water; second, by eating clean, wholesome food; third, by sleeping at least 7 hours out of each 24; and fourth, by keeping the bowels regulated.
8. Keep away from houses where there are cases of influenza.
9. Avoid chilling.
10. Avoid overheated rooms.
11. In case the disease develops,

THE BUS SERVICE
Editor of Post-Crescent—We have the bold announcement that Bus service is to be suspended March 15, 1929. This was to be expected although I first looked for a increased rate. I wish to discuss the whole transportation problem from the day the street car fare was increased.
About 7 or 8 years ago the street car fare was increased to 20 cents from Appleton to Kaukauna, and Appleton to Neenah. The people objected to paying this fee. They sought other and more reasonable transportation. Bus transportation was started at a reasonable rate. The street car fare was reduced due to competition. Street car service should have been discontinued.
After the buses proved a paying proposition the Power company started buying lines. I should think if a company could not make money in transportation that they would stay out of that field and leave the field open to those that could.
Competition was keen between Neenah and Appleton. The patrons had a choice between an orange and green bus. One line had difficulty in getting a parking place at Appleton. One objection was that they blocked a certain place for private cars to park. The buses are still parking at the same place but they were different buses. Well with all this trouble one had to give in. What was the result?
We immediately find a falling off of service. The extra buses were added only when large crowds had waited for a half hour. I refer to the days of the Christmas rush.
The next trouble the new bus company has is the bus fees at Menasha. The real cause of increasing the fee has never been published. It seems that Menasha had set a fee of $100 per bus. They contend that the fee was only paid on 5 buses, and claim that if buses were operated. Then they increased the fee to $300.00, and allowed only those that paid this amount to operate in their city. Now if the Power Co., and Menasha have a squabble why should the whole valley suffer. We have had the poorest service that could be handed any patron. It looks as tho the public should bring pressure at Menasha to make them give in.
Well its time to call this bluff. The public should know that there are other lines that desire this territory for they say it is the best paying line in the state of Wisconsin. I know of one firm that would like the franchise. Lets advertise that we have a good field for a bus line. We might as well call the threat now because what is to prevent the use of the same statement when a rate increase is asked.
Lets get some real public service. A little talking on the part of folks part by taxpayers would help. Another problem is the condition of the streets where cars were operated. Settle the question of cost to repair them. What about a reduced Power rate. These things would make more satisfied taxpayers.
Yours truly,
A Bus Patron.

THE ORATOR AS WRITER
When Charles James Fox, the greatest orator of his day and one of the greatest orators of all time, was forced out of public life by the exigencies of politics, he hit on the idea of using his powers writing the history of James II and his times. The story is told in John Drinkwater's new biography, "Charles James Fox: Gentleman, Gambler, Statesman."

But even Drinkwater, who is an almost sled length admirer of Fox, does not pretend that Fox made a success of his history although the great English liberal put in an enormous amount of research work and gave the task the best there was in him. Drinkwater quotes a paragraph or two from the history, informing his readers that they are among the only mediocre writing and the world has doubtless been enriched in completely ignoring Fox's history as a writer.
Fox himself realized long before he was through with his task that he was engaged on the wrong job for him. He says in one of his letters that his 30 years of parliamentary oratory is standing in his way. He cannot overcome the oratorical style, which is not the style of history or biography or fiction. Fox learned that a born orator is seldom a writer.

The main affliction of the orator who turns writer is usually the disease of "adjectivitis." Oratory, except the kind that rises to sublimity like the Gettysburg Address, is usually liberally sprinkled with adjectives. The adjective often is very effective in spoken speech which depends for much of its force on the emotion that incubates it. Transferred to written speech, in which the coolness of critical intellect has time to operate, it soon becomes ridiculous if used to excess. When the orator writes history or biography in the manner in which he pronounces an oration, he often becomes comic when he most desired to be impressive.

The born orator is seldom able to overcome this difficulty. Even Lincoln was only partly successful. The Gettysburg Address is great in its austere dignity, without any of the clasp of average oratory. Yet imagine a historian or biographer trying out to fix the date of a character's life and saying "Four score and seven years ago. If he had sense he would simply say 'Eighty-seven years ago.' But the orator turned historian almost invariably unconsciously sticks to the phrases that speak well. Lincoln never wrote a history but the practical style often comes out in his letters.

The late Senator Beveridge was one of the few orators who surmounted this handicap. He was an eloquent speaker and during his public life nothing seemed more unlikely than that he would ever be a writer of genuine importance. Not only did he abandon the easy generalizations that are characteristic of the orator and substitute the scholarship of the historian but he actually succeeded in overcoming the oratorical style. It was no small achievement.
The superlatively great orators of the world have almost never been superlatively great writers. A good many of them live in literature because their style was literature. Charles James Fox himself has a rightful place in English literature in that way. Cicero and Demosthenes belong to literature in this way, but when orators have attempted to be writers they have often been either failures or only moderately successful.

The late Williams Jennings Bryan was a great orator but he is completely negligible as a writer. He carried the orator's style over into the things he wrote, but unlike Fox, he did not seem to realize it himself.

There is something like rough justice in this fact. Why would an orator have gifts as a writer isn't the gift of oratory enough?

Moose Plan Dinner To End Drive

PLANS were perfected for the 6:30 dinner Tuesday night, Jan. 29, at the meeting of the Moose lodge Tuesday night at Moose temple. The dinner will be served by a group of members of the local chapter of Women of Mooseheart Legion and will mark the end of the membership contest that has been running for the past three months, which was won by team No. 2. F. J. Foreman was the captain. In addition, the dinner will be the beginning of a 60 day intensive membership drive in which 10 five-man teams will work locally and one 10-man team will cover Neenah and Menasha.

A. J. Hermann, B. T. Gamsky, Edward Potter, I. G. Maas, Phillip Kruetzer, Jr., George Laux, H. L. Bowby, Fred Douglas, Fred Ernst and L. P. Larson will act as captains of the local teams and William F. Meyer will have charge of the Neenah-Menasha team. There will also be a "clean up squad" composed of Dictator E. E. Cahall, Prelate George Walt, Jr., while Past Dictator G. W. Lausman, E. W. Bates and F. J. Foreman will act as an auxiliary committee. Norton J. Williams of Neenah, past president of the Wisconsin State Moose association will attend the dinner next Tuesday night and will give an address. Following the dinner there will be a lodge meeting at which a class of 12 candidates will be initiated.

DeMolays To Fete Grand Council Man

THE first representative of the grand council ever received in Appleton will visit the John F. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay, at 7:30 Thursday evening at Masonic temple. A rare occurrence, the putting on the initiatory and the DeMolay degree the same evening will take place at the meeting and the degree work will be inspected and commented upon by the grand council representative.

Appleton Chapter, No. 47, Royal Arch Masons have dispensed with their meeting Thursday night to attend the DeMolay conclave and it is expected that many Winnebago chapters will be represented by delegations.

Officers who will fill the chairs for the degree work are: Master councilor, Frank Barriman; senior councilor, James Hosogood; junior councilor, Roger Abraham; junior deacon, Herman Schweger; junior deacon, Walter Moore; senior steward, Vincent Bugges; junior steward, Volney Burgess; standard bearer, Robert Kuntz; marshal, Robert Shepherd; chaplain, Chester Davis; orator, Edward Herzfeldt; orator, Carleton Roth; almoner, Kenneth Downey; preceptors, Wilmer Schlarf, Jr., Chester Thiede, Carl Wettengel, Kenneth Kloeck, Howard Stark, Harold Woehler and Roy Marston, Jr., scribe, Alvin Woehler.

ZUEHLKE AGAIN HEAD OF TITLE COMPANY

B. J. Zuehlke was reelected president of the Outagamie Loan and Title company at the annual meeting in the company offices, Tuesday evening. Other officers reelected are F. V. Heinemann, vice president; A. F. Zuehlke, treasurer and George T. Richards, secretary. The board of directors is composed of A. H. Kreugmeier and officers of the company. Plans for the year were discussed and regular business matters transacted.

STATE OPTOMETRISTS TO HOLD MEET HERE

Appleton was selected as the 1929 convention city of the Wisconsin Optometrists association convention at a meeting of state association directors held in Milwaukee last Friday evening, according to word received here. The convention will be held from July 14 to 16, and headquarters probably will be the Conway hotel, according to local optometrists. It is expected 400 men from throughout the state will gather here to conduct clinics and hold sectional conferences.

LODGE NEWS

Konemie lodge, Order of Odd Fellows, with Deputy Grand Master J. L. Forbes and Deputy Grand Marshal Irwin S. Kimball, installed officers who were unable to be present at the regular installation, at a meeting Monday night. The officers installed, vice-grand, Arthur Malchow, right supporter of vice-grand, Alex. Fahlstrom; left supporter of vice-grand, Ernest Maynard; right supporter of the noble grand, John McCarter; warden, Ellicott Stillman. The second degree was conferred and W. L. Philip was appointed captain of the third degree team. Regular business is scheduled for the meeting next Monday night.

Twenty-five members of Catholic Order of Foresters attended the business meeting Tuesday night at Catholic home. Announcement was made of the second of the series of card tournaments for the second Tuesday in February.

A supper at 6:15 Thursday evening at Catholic home will precede the regular meeting of Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus. Gustave Keller, Sr., will have charge of the program.

Mrs. A. G. Koch will represent the Deborah Rebekah lodge of this city at the quarterly district convention of the lodge Thursday at Manitowish Cities comprising the district are Green Bay, Shurgeon Bay, De Pere, Kaukauna, Manitowish, Two Rivers, Appleton, Menasha and Stockbridge.

Officers will be installed at the meeting of the Delta chapter, Boy Scouts of America, at 7:30 Thursday afternoon at Odd Fellow hall with Mrs. George Lambster and Mrs. William Daniluk of Milwaukee, the installing officers. A banquet at 6:30 in the Crystal room of the Conway hotel will conclude the program for the afternoon.

The party for Pythian Sisters was announced Thursday has been postponed Thursday afternoon, Jan. 31. An open card party will be held Thursday afternoon, Feb. 7 with Mrs. E. E. Cahall and members of her circle in charge.

A social meeting of Equitable Fraternal union will entertain members of the lodge at 8 o'clock Thursday night at Odd Fellow hall. This will be the regular semi-monthly meeting of the organization.

Quits Air Stunting

Oakland, Calif.—Harry Crandell has quit stunting before the movie camera to fly the air mail "straight and level." Once during his stunt days Crandell's aside was dropping flour over the side of a plane to make "smoke" for a movie when a full sack fell on the ruder bar. The plane dived 800 feet.

ASKS BAR ON BEAR SEASON

Senator R. Bruce Johnson of Superior put in a bill to bar open season on bear and Senator Walter J. Rush of Neillsville introduced a measure permitting drainage districts to dissolve where half of the land is tax delinquent.

SENATOR ATTACKS SMALL LOAN LAW

Charges Small Loans Often Result in Interest Charge of 40 Per Cent

Madison—Repeal of the small loan act passed at the last session of the legislature was asked by a bill introduced in the upper house by Senator P. J. Smith of Eau Claire.

After several failures, the small loan provisions were written in the statute books with the backing of welfare workers. It provides that on loans up to $300 an interest rate of three and a half per cent per month can be charged. The measure is being assailed on the ground it charges forty-two per cent interest a year. Supporters of the law, however, contend the loans under this act seldom run for an entire year.

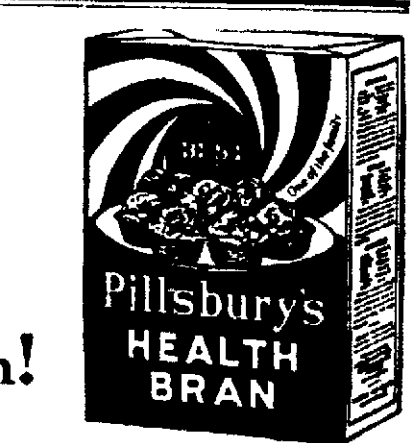

20 COMPANIES OPERATING

Wisconsin has about twenty institutions organized to make small loans. One of these firms voluntarily has cut its interest rate a third since starting operation under the new law. If the effort to repeal the law fails, an attempt will be made to reduce the interest rates.

Small loan companies contend they must have that interest rate because their loans are made without the customary security.

TOO MUCH
FRESH AIR?
SOMETIMES

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Occasionally parents get excited over an epidemic and resort to all sorts of unusual things to keep children well.

Their zest, however, often misses the mark and defeats its own ends.

The best thing to use in any circumstance is common sense; the best thing, doubly, in an epidemic is common sense. Nothing has ever been tried that could beat it. One poor mother got it into her head that more fresh air was the thing to make her two little boys immune to sickness. They had been accustomed to an hour outdoors mornings and afternoons, but now she doubled the dose.

As it happened the weather got bitter cold just then, but fresh air was fresh air and out they went—and stayed—for about four hours the first day.

One of the little boys sat down on a neighbor's back steps and she asked him in. It was from her I got the story. "His lips were blue. He had on high woolen socks but his legs above his knees were like ice."

"I took him home then," she related, "and I said to his mother, 'Buster seems cold. I didn't think you'd want him out any longer.'"

"He's all right," she answered. "Children can stand a lot. Just see here."

BRINGS OUT THE "PROOF!"

"And she brought out a magazine picture of some children almost naked playing in the snow in a mountain resort of Europe. 'I don't know about that,' I said to her. 'All I know is that I think it's pretty cold for this little type to be outside any longer.'"

I wonder how many mothers are being misled thus.

To begin with, the climate of the place shown in the picture is high and dry, and even with deep snow in the ground, neither bitterly cold nor changeable. Besides, those European health camps are conducted by specialists who know what they are doing. Such heroic treatment needs intelligent supervision.

Here, with our changeable weather, the ordinary lay person would best not attempt to emulate them. If any prolonged treatment is attempted it should be under the supervision of specialists.

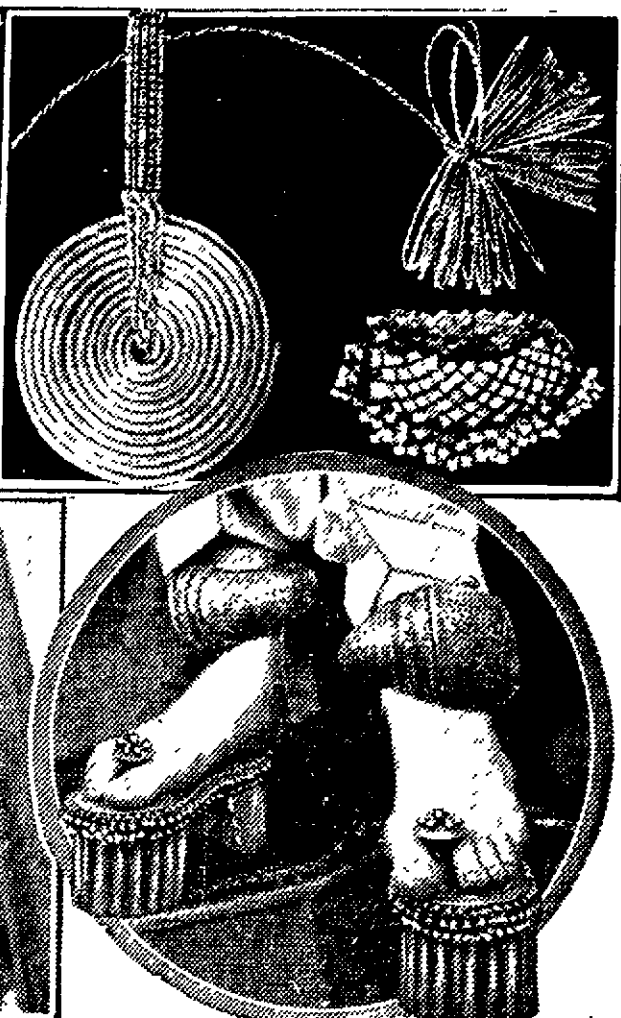

Children need fresh air but they should not be exposed at too long periods at a time, and they should always feel comfortable. If they begin to chill they should come in at once.

Buster nearly died of pneumonia. But after all his mother was doing it, as she thought, for his good. She was mistaken, that was all. Outdoor exercise and fresh air are not synonymous with exposure.

Modern Miss May Have "Rings On Her Fingers And Bells On Her Toes" In 1929

A rare collection from Zanzibar and British East Africa includes a necklace of amber and silver, bracelet is a native earring of brass coils and bright beads, one side of a head-piece of beads and an anklet of links and bells.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

NEA Service Writer
NEW YORK—The 1928 modern miss really may have "rings on her fingers and bells on her toes" before the year is out.

For the latest source of inspiration for modern jewelry comes from the jewelry worn by the natives of Zanzibar and British East Africa and bells are one of their chief decorative notes.

It really is conceivable that with the current bare-legged vogue, women may take to the African ornamental clogs that have tinkling bells as their most original decoration.

NECKLACES INTRICATE

More important than the bells, possibly, are the intricate stunning designs on the native silver, gold and brass necklaces, earrings, head-pieces, anklets and bracelets.

In order that these designs may be studied at close range, Ethel M. Traphagen, recently returned from Africa, has brought back one of the finest collections of rare museum pieces of jewelry from Zanzibar and British East Africa. Her pupils will use the designs, not only for jewelry but for decoration on new spring frocks.

The motif on an ankle may prove just the right touch, when copied in color, for a little frock that is strictly modern. Or the deep bracelet may suggest something entirely new in cuffs for a new suit.

IDEAS FROM AFRICA

From the point of view of modern jewelry, there is a wealth of ideas contained in this collection of African things.

Take, for instance, a necklace that formerly belonged to a Sultana. It uses some perfectly beautiful amber chunks in conjunction with exquisite silver filigree that has perhaps two dozen different little motifs worked out by hand. The shape of the necklace, moreover, is new, bizarre and elegant slightly, might be quite the most stunning adornment any woman could dream of.

On this necklace there are fully a half hundred musical little silver bells, some of them attached by delicate little hand-made silver rings, each with its own little decorative touch at the top, any one of which is suggestive of a new design.

AND IT'S BELLS, BELLS, BELLS!

The earrings that go with this necklace—for Zanzibar sultanas apparently had ensembles of jewelry just as Americans do—have clusters of three little bells, suspended by finely wrought silver chains of intricate links. The chin-chain, a new note in jewelry for us, repeats the charming links of the earrings.

Quite surprising is the lip-stick of hand-wrought silver, which really is a lip-stick, for the rouge is contained in a silver pot. The whole thing slips into Milady Sultana's waist when she is not making up.

One of the bracelets in this collection is the equivalent in beauty to a whole forearm of different and intricately designed bracelets. For they are designed in bands of different motifs, very different and very complicated, using flowers, tribal signs, bits of animal life and other native things for their source. These are in silver and some have gold used in conjunction with it.

While American women will scarcely ever take to such ornate anklets as the Sultanas wear, nevertheless one of the Sultana's anklets would make a stunning upper arm bracelet for American women. Moreover, each of those shown in this collection is handsomely designed, with a wealth of fine scrolls, dots, fluted edges and other suggestions for new jewelry.

CLOGS ARE EXOTIC

The clogs themselves show an Oriental influence, both in their design and decoration. One pair of hand-some engraved silver ones, with double rows of silver bells, has toes posts of gold that in themselves would make stunning belt-buckles, earrings, or some other bit of jewelry.

The jewelry that the natives who were not Sultanas wore is rich in suggestion for design also. It uses, for the most part, spirals of brass and decorative beads. But from the point of view of color and original designs, the loop earrings, the head-dresses that have earrings attached and the bracelets are quite usable as they are, if one is exotic looking and likes things original.

OLD STYLES
BACK AT FIRST
OPERA NIGHT

BY DIANA MERWIN

Paris — (P) Fashion did a backward dip when the Diaghilev ballet had its first night at the opera. There were ground length skirts, fitted bodices and long kid gloves aplenty in the crowd of fashionable women that turned out for one of the biggest nights the Paris opera has had this winter.

The ground length skirts, which swept like trains on the grand staircase of marble, included a Chinese red satin dress with princess bodice and square décolletage. It was worn by a slight blonde woman with a fringe of curls on her forehead and shingled hair. A long tight wrap of silver lame reaching to the ankles was another creation that caused comment.

Among the wearers of white kid gloves of more than elbow length was Mrs. Jefferson Davis Cohn, considered one of Paris' well dressed women. Mrs. Gene Turner, who attended with her husband, and had to undergo the stares from many pairs of opera glasses during intermissions, was one of the few women wearing long sleeves. Her gown was heavy black lace with closefitting square neckline.

The jewels of a young English matron who wore a double halo of diamonds on her blonde curling hair and clusters of diamonds falling just in front of her ears, like small bunches of grapes, were particularly elaborate.

THE NEW Saint
Sinner
By Anne Austin

"Thank God, this story broke on our time," Harry Blaine remarked devoutly, when he had very thoroughly interviewed Tony and Cherry, and was ready to go back to the offices of The Press, Stanton's most important evening newspaper.

"Why, that The Press gets first crack at it, rather than The Morning Star, of course," Harry Blaine translated.

"Is it really necessary to spread poor Crystal all over the front pages, Harry?" Tony persisted, voice and eyes forlorn.

"If you want to find her, it is," Harry retorted. "The public will be your best bet in the detective business, to say nothing of reporters. Well, I've got to beat it. Police headquarters is holding the news back until The Press gets on the streets with the story, but I'd like the first extra to be out by ten o'clock, at the latest. I'll keep in touch."

At nine Pat Tarver left for his own office, after having reiterated his offers of assistance of any and every sort, including the ransom money, if another and larger demand should be made. Tony and Sandy had already left for Grayson's to carry out Harry Blaine's suggestions to the letter, and, in addition, to appeal to the kind-hearted conductor of the interurban not to volunteer any information to the press concerning Crystal's several trips to the country. Bob telephoned that he was making the rounds of all hospitals within a fifty mile radius, but that he would keep in hourly touch with his home.

"And how's Faith?" he demanded of Cherry, who had answered the telephone.

"She's sleeping. Dr. Black gave her a sedative," Cherry answered. "Why don't you ask how I'm bearing up? I don't get any sympathy around here."

"Oh, you're enjoying the excitement and you know it," Bob retorted with cruel frankness. "Don't forget that Nils is due home from Kansas City today, and behave yourself accordingly. Is Beardsley still there?"

"Yes—your beast!" Cherry cried, slamming the receiver upon the hook.

Tears of rage glittered in her eyes when she reentered the living room, where Alan Beardsley was striding about nervously. He mistook the tears for grief, and his desire to comfort her overrode discretion.

"You poor little darling!" he murmured, taking her hand; then, as she let it lie passively in his, he quickly swung her to his breast, his handsome head bending low so that his lips could brush her tumbled copper-and-gold curls.

"You do understand me—don't think I'm a horrid, selfish little beast?" she gasped brokenly. Before he kissed her, hungrily, she reflected swiftly that this was the first man who had done so since she had fallen in love with her Viking, Nils.

Queen Anne Furniture
Has Beauty And Comfort

A room with Queen Anne furnishings.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Noted as an authority on period furniture, William H. Wilson, vice president of the American Furniture Mart, writes today on Queen Anne pieces in the first of the series of timely articles on "Making Homes Beautiful" which he has prepared for Post-Crescent and NEA Service.

BY WILLIAM H. WILSON

Written for NEA Service

THE days of Queen Anne saw the revolution forecast in the reign of William and Mary. In the preceding period there had been evolution of the straight line to the curve reign supreme.

Mahogany, making its debut in the middle of Queen Anne's reign, became a leading wood. The cabriole leg—(the term implies the line of the human leg with the knee bent)—made its appearance in Queen Anne's time, and has become general in use. Underbracing disappeared. The Queen Anne furniture was heavier than that which immediately preceded it, but, even so, it was another step toward the beautiful lines of the Georgian period. Queen Anne furniture itself was thick-set, heavy, and middle-class. Modern reproductions of the furniture have eliminated this stoddiness with the result that this style has become one of the most popular in use here in America.

Queen Anne furniture may be used in the living rooms, bedrooms and dining rooms. It further emphasizes the essentials of furnishing the home; combination of usefulness, beauty and comfort. The Queen Anne style gives the tone of hospitality, and good fellowship.

Printed linens and tapestries, used in the early Eighteenth century are appropriate for use with this style, although a huge amount of nonsense in needlework was produced at the time, for the good Queen Anne was nothing if not a Bourgeois housewife, and fond of sentimental wall mottoes.

WOMAN'S HAND
PUTS LIFE INTO
PAPER DOLLS

Pittsburgh — (P) — As if by magic wand, Miss Nancy Thompson, Pittsburgh artist, brings to life in paper miniature the creatures of fable and fairy love.

Her hobby keeps her busy days, and quite often nights, fitting tiny arms and legs to little wrapped bodies, pasting silk hose on finished fashion models, and touching up paper mache faces.

The artist says she always had a hankering to lay her hands on paper, bits of silk, paint brush and pencil. Miss Thompson's inspiration is drawn from fashion books, fairy stories and the novels.

"I make everything I am asked to make," says Miss Thompson.

At Broussa a Turkish captain has been sentenced to a year's hard labor for opposing the new alphabet introduced by Mustapha Kemal.

VIGOROUS BODIES
NEED VEGETABLESSugar Works Wonders in Flavoring Them

"What do these canned tomatoes need to make them taste better?" Sugar added to the tomatoes while they are being heated will work wonders in making them enjoyable. Sometimes as much sugar as two tablespoonsful to a quart is needed.

"What's wrong with these peas?" They taste flat. Add a teaspoonful of sugar to a can of peas while you are warming them and notice the difference.

"What's the matter with these carrots?" They don't taste like carrots. Add a teaspoonful of sugar to the carrots while they are cooking and notice the difference.

"This corn is almost tasteless." Add a teaspoonful of sugar to a can of stewed corn when warming it and notice the improvement. Everyone improves the flavor of canned corn by adding butter, salt and pepper. Up to a teaspoonful of sugar per can will give an even greater improvement.

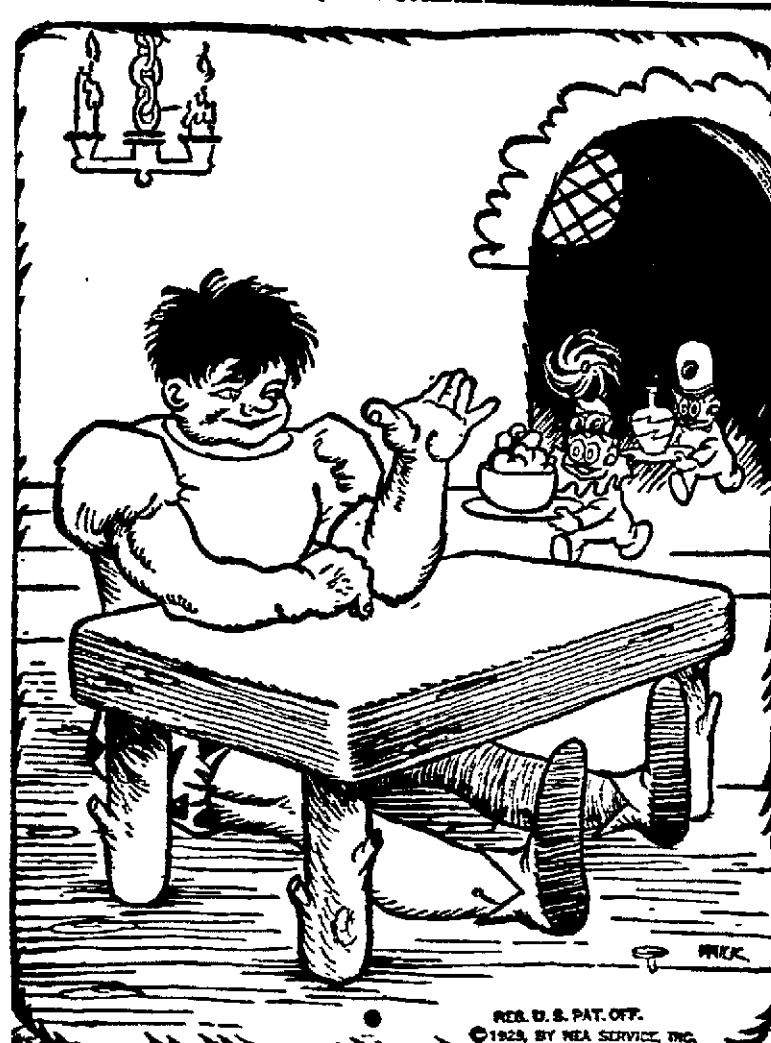

Add a dash of sugar to the cooking of string beans.

It isn't strange that sugar improves all these vegetables. Nature developed sweetness as the perfect flavor and the result is the proper amount of sugar changes flat, unpalatable foods into dishes that can be enjoyed.

One famous cook puts it this way: "A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute."

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Times hopped upon his back. The giant said, "Give me a whack and yell giddyap!" Then I will crawl inside your little house. Now slap me good. Don't merely pat. You can't hurt me. I'm sure of that. You'll know that I'm not harmed 'cause I'll be quiet as a mouse."

"All right," said Scouty. "Good-bye, know, I hate to strike you, but here goes." With that he slapped the giant, who burst out in merry glee. "Oh my, oh my, was that a slap? It felt just like a gentle pat. You'd better try your luck again. Make believe you're mad at me."

This time each Tiny swung his hand, and Mister Giant shouted, "Grand! I'll now begin to move, and take you where you want to go." Then, with his back quite downward bent, right through the door he shortly went. The Times all hung on because he traveled sure, but slow.

At last he said, "That ends your story."

ride, 'cause you can see that we're inside. This is my happy home and you are welcome as can be. I'm going to have a bite of food and as, of course, I'm never rude I hereby ask you Tinymites to join right in with me."

"Out in my kitchen you will find some tasty food of every kind. You Tinies do the serving. I'll just watch you prepare." "All right, we'll show you that we can," one Tiny said, and off they ran. Then Copy whispered to the rest. "This giant seems quite fair."

When they returned with food to eat, they saw the giant had his feet spread far beneath the table, and they all began to grin. "I have to sit like this," said he, " 'cause I'm so long, as you can see. And now, if food is ready, it is time that we begin."

(There is a grand upset in the next story.)

FIREMEN THINK KAUKAUNA SHOULD RAISE BUS FEE

Suggest Annual License of from $150 to $200 for Each Bus

Kaukauna—After a lengthy discussion of bus fees in Kaukauna, a committee of five men, consisting of Mayor W. Sullivan, Bernard N. Aust, W. H. Cooper, Ernest Landrean and Hugo Weisenbach, was appointed to represent the city in any meeting on the question. The action was taken after a letter from the Wisconsin Michigan Power company was read to the council proposing to abandon the bus service between Neenah and Kaukauna on March 15.

Most of the aldermen favored a higher bus fee although they agreed that the $300 fee demanded by Menasha was too high. The council faced having two heated terminals at the city, one on each side of the river.

Alderman W. Cooper said that he thought the city should raise the bus fee from $50, the present fee, to $150 or each bus operating in the city. He said for buses running through the city to Manitowish and Green Bay could be lower he said. He also pointed out that the bus service was having several others on having buses stop only at the terminals for taking on and discharging passengers.

WANT MORE TERMINALS

Small waiting station at every corner block and the bus fee would be about $100, Alderman E. Faust said. This would give a place for passengers to wait in cold weather. If the bus company did not want to build terminals a higher fee should be charged, he said.

Alderman William Carney and Hugo Weisenbach stated that the city would be justified in raising the fee to $200 for each bus operating in the city. They also favored having terminals.

The buses should have two terminals at which they should take on and discharge passengers, Alderman E. Landrean said. They could be made to stop at the streets where they hinder traffic. He said that if this wasn't done a large fee should be charged.

Alderman C. Smith told the common council to consider the bus situation on all angles before taking any action. He said he believed at the bus question was an inter-city proposition and should be settled at a meeting of all the cities concerned. He pointed out that such a meeting was sure to take place for March 15. He favored having terminals in the city for waiting passengers. Following the advice of Alderman Smith a committee was appointed to represent the city when an inter-city meeting is called to discuss the matter.

APPOINT RACINE WOMAN AS NURSE

Miss Cecil Flynn Gets Appointment from List of Five Applicants

Kaukauna—Miss Cecil Flynn of Racine was appointed city nurse at a meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. There were five applicants. George L. Smith, chairman of a health and education committee, recommended Miss Flynn after investigating references of all the applicants. The appointment was made with the understanding that she has been certified by the state health department for a position of that kind. Alderman Smith was advised to make after the matter immediately so that she can begin work. Miss Flynn will take the place of Miss Hattie Jones who resigned in December.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Zedt and Miss Julia Groth of Manitowish visited at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Markow of Neenah were callers in Kaukauna Monday. William Wright of Green Bay visited in this city on Tuesday. Alvin Beck of Beaver Dam is visiting with local friends this week.

BREAK BRIDGE PLANK

Kaukauna—About twenty planks were broken on the south end of west bridge at 2:15 Tuesday afternoon when a passenger bus of Wisconsin Michigan Power company ran on the board walk. The bus was going north when a rear wheel skidded on the walk and broke planks. They were replaced immediately with new ones by city workmen.

NEW GERMAN BOOKS
Kaukauna—Five new German books have been received at the local high school for the German class. They are of a new type being introduced in the school and are entitled "Ein Sommer in Deutschland."

CLEAR RAILROAD YARDS

Kaukauna—About 10 carloads of snow have been removed from the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad yards near Main-ave by company workmen. There are a large number of carloads of snow still to be shoveled and extra men have been hired to help with the removal.

INFANT DIES

Kaukauna—The body of Ronald Kiffe, 2-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kiffe, was buried in the St. Mary cemetery Wednesday morning. The child died Monday.

ESTIMATE DAMAGE TO NORTHWESTERN DEPOT AT $2,500

Open Ticket Office in Y. M. C. A. Until Repairs Can Be Made

Kaukauna—Loss caused by fire in the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Ashland division depot Tuesday afternoon was estimated at $2,500. The fire burned for about two and a half hours, beginning about 12 o'clock Tuesday noon. Firemen were handicapped by a strong wind but a large number of men volunteered services. The whole south end of the building was burned, with only the brick walls standing.

The fire was discovered by Ervin Spur, who was returning to his home from the railroad shops for his dinner. Five hoses were played on the fire. The fire truck pumped from the canal and nearby hydrants were in use.

The stock room and one waiting room were badly burned and the ticket agents office and other waiting rooms were flooded with water. A temporary ticket office has been opened in the Y. M. C. A., near the depot.

After-Effects More Dangerous Than Flu Itself

Colds Attacking Weakened System Pave Way for Pneumonia and Other Serious Diseases

AVOID TOO MUCH DOSING

One of the peculiarities of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset. Constant "dosing" for the colds which come so frequently after a flu attack still further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite. Just when the body needs nourishment more than ever.

And yet these colds are so apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia that they must be treated at the first sign.

Vikes Figure They Have Chance To Beat Carroll Thursday

PIONEERS HAVE BEEN DEFEATED IN LAST GAMES

Lost to Beloit Thursday Evening at Waukesha, 30 and 29

If there's anything a Lawrence college team takes delight in doing it's beating a representative of Carroll college, Waukesha. And perhaps one of those little victories over the Pioneers will become a reality Thursday evening when Coach Norris Armstrong brings his cagers here for the first game this winter between the two schools.

Tuesday evening the Vikings went back into training after taking a day off following their return from a victorious jaunt into Iowa at which time they defeated Coe college of Cedar Rapids and Cornish college of Mt. Vernon. A session of practice designed to limber up a few muscles and joint was gone through by the Vikes and they now are ready for another drill Wednesday evening, the last before meeting the invaders Thursday.

But when they start drill Wednesday evening the Vikes will have a mighty lot of confidence for their task for Thursday doesn't seem so great now that the Pioneers have lost their two games. Last week they dropped a close decision to Lake Forest and Tuesday evening saw Beloit romp off with a one point margin.

It's mighty seldom that Coach A. C. Denny of Lawrence will express himself in terms of chances to win, but he has indicated he hopes to see the boys crash through Thursday, a soothing balm for several defeats that still rankle in the coach's mind.

The showing of the Lawrence boys on its weekend trip was highly satisfactory in the opinion of Denny and he now believes that the squad will battle on a par with most anything it meets this season. Only one defeat mars the year's efforts, the Vikes having lost to Marquette early in the month.

Denny's starting lineup against Carroll 1 probably will be the same that started against Coe and Cornell. Irving Jackala and Hayward Biggers will bear the burden as forwards, the offensive combination being rounded out by Frank Schneller. Captain Jerry Slavic will be at center guard and Pierce probably at the other.

Relief for these men will be Rasmussen and Hoffman, forwards, Laird, center, and Steinberg, Ellis and St. Mitchell guards. Playing on his home court, Coach Denny has a flock of players ready to relieve the regulars when they tire.

BILL CARRIGAN TO REBUILD RED SOX

Has 37 Players but Don't Know Worth of More Than a Few

BY WILLIAM R. KING
Associated Press Sports Writer

Boston—(AP)—Bill Carrigan is going to do a lot of building, with the Boston Red Sox.

He has been building for two years and he believes it will take at least two more before he can get a combination of young ball players, with a castoff here and there, that will make any kind of an impression in the American league.

He has 37 players on his roster and only 13 of them were with the club last season. He has 13 pitchers, 6 catchers, 10 infielders and 8 outfielders.

He has no idea who is going to play in his infield and doesn't expect to until the squad has been working out at Bradenton, Fla. for a couple of weeks.

Phil Todd seems to be the only infielder sure of holding his job. Bill Regan must outfight Jerry Standert, late of Brooklyn, and Grant Gillis, who came from Washington in the Buddy Myers trade, for second.

There are three outstanding candidates for the short-stop berth. Harold Rhyne, who came from Philadelphia on waivers; Wally Gerber and Bobby Reeves, who held down that position for Washington for two seasons.

Carrigan's biggest problem seems to be the finding of an adequate third baseman.

Of the eight outfielders due to report at Bradenton, four have seen service with the Red Sox.

There will be five right-handed batters from the 1928 pitching staff, Big Ed Morris, Charley Ruffing, Danny MacFayden, Jack Russell and Pat Simmons.

K. C. BOWLERS AT PORT WASHINGTON

Port Washington—(AP)—Although entries for the 13th annual state bowling tournament of the Knights of Columbus which opens here Feb. 9, do not close until Jan. 28, Secretary G. H. Adam says a record list is anticipated.

More than 150 teams already have expressed intention of entering the including groups from Milwaukee, Sheboygan, West Bend, Hartford, Beaver Dam, Sturgeon Bay and Eau Claire. Several Fox River Valley clubs have expressed intention of sending bowlers, Mr. Adam says, but entries have not yet been received.

PLATTEVILLE WALLPERS WHITEWATER TEACHERS

Platteville—(AP)—In a conference game here Tuesday night, the Platteville State Teachers' college cagers defeated the Whitewater State Teachers, 45 to 23. Platteville led at the half, 23 to 7. Hapch, forward, led the Platteville team in scoring.

APPLETON SCORERS TRAIL IN LEAGUE

Kallman, West Green Bay, Has Scored 16 Field Goals This Season

Despite the fact they are one of the two teams leading the valley league, Appleton high school basketballers, if they can win the title, probably will be dubbed the basketless wonders. Records compiled recently show the Orange highest scorer ranks tenth among others in the loop, nothing to brag about.

CALLAHAN WINNER IN MILWAUKEE BOUT

Victor Fails to Show the Knockout Punch He Toted Years Ago

Milwaukee—(AP)—Shuffle Callahan, Chicago middleweight, won a newspaper decision over Chief Elkhardt, Okla., in an 8 round slugging match here Tuesday night.

Although he had the Indian on the canvas on five different occasions, Callahan failed to display that knockout punch which gave him many victories a few years ago. A left hook to the body put Elkhardt down for a count of nine in the first round.

In the fourth the chief went down three times under a barrage of head blows but each time he recovered from what looked like certain knockouts.

In the semi-windup Sammy Ward, Chicago junior lightweight took the right to Louis New, Milwaukee, and earned a decision after having his opponent on the verge of a knockout.

Other results were: Lee Spiegel, Milwaukee bantamweight, knocked out Dickie Dickson, Los Angeles; Louis Bernstein, Milwaukee, defeated Art Spantico; Fred Tompkin, Milwaukee, felled Jimmy Munsell, Milwaukee.

Cleveland—Paul Pirone, Cleveland, Ray Amney, Buffalo, (6); Carl Tremaine, outpointed John De Neri, Cleveland, (6).

"Bat" Levinsky Says Big Purses Ruin Boxers

Philadelphia—(AP)—Battling Levinsky thinks big purses "are ruining American heavyweight fighters and itself in the same way." He says that England did 10 and 15 years ago. "The former light heavyweight champion of the world gave his views in a radio talk Tuesday night.

The public interest in heavyweight matches and the resultant big purses offered by promoters, is causing the class of American heavyweights to deteriorate," said the battler who retired last week after 20 years of fighting. "In a few years our so-called leading heavyweights will be men who have been pushed to the top without the proper training and experience.

HALVERSON LOST TO RIPON CAGERS
Star Is Confined to Home With Flu; Redmen Meet Coe, Cornell

Ripon—Cliff Halverson, star forward on the Ripon college basketball squad and leading Midwest conference scorer, is not expected to engage in Ripon's Midwest games with Cornell and Coe this weekend. The veteran sharp shooter is confined to his bed with an attack of the flu.

Coach Rippe announced Tuesday. Following the victorious Beloit game here last Thursday, Halverson contracted a cold and has been seriously ill since. He was unable to participate in the Northwestern game at Watertown last Saturday evening.

The loss of Halverson for the important Iowa tilt Friday and Saturday night comes as a rugged blow to Coach Rippe, who earlier in the month saw the passing of his star center, Lawrence Breitrick, who was unable to complete the court season because of a heart ailment.

In the absence of Halverson, who has scored an average of thirteen points in four Midwest games, the scoring burdens will fall to Ripon's fleet forwards, Martin and Jaspers. Lettermen of last year both have been huge factors in the scoring prowess of Halverson. Martin has been one of the best "feeders" ever seen on Ripon's hardwoods. Subbing for the Midwest high scorer will be no easy task for Jaspers, who has had some difficulty in locating the loop in early games.

The remainder of the Ripon offense for the Iowa games will be borne by Sparr. The Marshfield lad's court tactics in the Northwestern game has won for him first call over Martin, lanky sophomore pivot man. Coach Rippe will on Thursday with his depleted squad for the Cornell and Coe tilts, which will be played at Mount Vernon and Cedar Rapids on Friday and Saturday evenings.

ST. JOSEPH CAGERS WIN FROM TROOP 4

Members of the St. Joseph junior high school basketball team indulged in a practice game with members of Troop 4, Boy Scouts, and came away the winners, 33 and 17. The game was played at Armory G. Tuesday evening.

Wishes at right forward for the parochial youngsters was high scorer with four field goals and four free throws. C. Rossmel and J. Rossmel followed with six and five points, respectively. Zimdars was high scorer for the scouts and of the game. He sank five field goals and one free throw.

Appleton Teams Entered In World Bowling Meet

Milwaukee—The desire to enter the world's bowling championships to be held in Chicago during the months of March and April has brought to the office of Secretary Langtry in Milwaukee a splendid support from various Wisconsin cities who enjoy the old time keg-fest just as they did years ago.

The following cities have entered teams in the big tournament, and as they have always been good money collectors, it is safe to say that Wisconsin will receive more than their share of the $150,000 prize list.

Kenosha, Racine, Madison, Sheboygan, Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Manitowish, Beaver Dam, Port Washington, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Janesville, Burlington, Beloit, Monroe, Stoughton, Stevens Point, Oconomowoc, Watertown, Horicon, Janes, Ripon, Berlin, Rhinelander, Superior, Portage, Hartford, Antigo, Oconto Falls, Plymouth, New Holstein and Milwaukee.

Milwaukee will have an entry of over 100 teams to make the trip to Chicago.

This is an imposing list of candidates for honors in the world's bowling championships, and it will be the greatest representation that Wisconsin will ever have had in any sporting event. The total entry will be about 2,600 teams, of which Wisconsin will enter at least 300 teams.

The entries close Feb. 1st, as it takes about one month to arrange the huge schedule and have same ready for the tournament opening at Dexter Pavilion on March 2, 1929.

U. W. ATHLETES BATTLE WITH EXAMS

Badger Cagers Don't Go Into Action Until Feb. 12

Madison—Following the appearance of the Badger basketball team at Purdue Monday night the University of Wisconsin's sport squads went into a huddle for the semi-annual struggle with semester topics and examinations. No contests appear on the books until the second week in February.

When his cagers are not spending their time in libraries or classrooms, Dr. Walter E. Meanwell intends to drill them for an intensive drive toward the Western conference title during the last half of the season. He intends to experiment with four former football players, Sammy Behr, Terry Quinn, Centenben, and Lewis Smith, and may find that one of them fits into his regular lineup.

The next basketball game will be against Bradley Polytechnic, Peoria, Ill., at Madison on Feb. 12. This engagement will be a warm-up affair for the Big Ten tilt at Indiana on Feb. 16.

Johnny Farquhar's hockey team, plus a number of ski experts and speed skaters will participate in the Vausau Winter Frolic on Feb. 6-10. The Badgers, minus the services of Art Thomsen, stellar left wing, lost to Marquette last weekend, 9-0.

Fights Last Night

Milwaukee—Shuffle Callahan, Chicago, outpointed Chief Elkhardt, Okla., (6); Sammy Ward, Chicago, outpointed Louis New, Milwaukee, (6).

WILKESBARRE, Pa.—Frankie Garcia, Utica, N. Y., outpointed Johnny Dundee, (10); Tubby Nobel, Wilkes-Barre, stopped Jack Salinger, Montana, (2).

Chicago—Joey Medill, Chicago, outpointed Spug Myers, Peacetto, Ida., (10); Eddie Baitaine, Chicago, outpointed Iowa Joe, Ruffs, Cedar Rapids, Ia., (9); Paul Fantaleo, knocked out Jerry Sullivan, Indianapolis, (5); "King" Levinsky, Chicago, and Babe De Corsey, St. Paul, drew, (5).

NORTHWESTERN TO MEET NOTRE DAME

Only Big Ten Game This Week Is Chicago Versus Ohio State

Chicago—(AP)—Although Western conference basketball entered its end of semester doldrums after Monday night's games, Northwestern will keep the court game alive by meeting its traditional non-conference rival, Notre Dame, at Patten gym Saturday.

Only one conference game is scheduled for the remainder of this week, Chicago playing at Ohio State Saturday.

Sixty-one hundred seats, the capacity of Patten gym, have been sold for the Northwestern-Notre Dame fracas, in which the South Bend quintet will be seeking revenge for an early season defeat on its home floor. Northwestern won the game at South Bend with two substitutes in the lineup and this week will play without Rut Walter, regular center.

KUNITZ BOWLERS WIN FROM SCHREITER FAMILY

Another family bowling feud was settled for a while at least, when the Kunitz family beat the Schreiter family in a match game bowled on Elk alleys Tuesday evening. The score was 1,525 to 1,434 in favor of the Kunitz's. Oscar Kunitz was high scorer for his household with a 558 while Herman Schreiter hit 515 for the honor of his clan.

WOMEN BOWLERS WILL ROLL AT OSHKOSH

Oshkosh—(AP)—With the annual state bowling tournament away at Sheboygan Tuesday, women kегlers are arranging for the annual state meet to be held here Feb. 15 to 24. More than 100 teams are expected to enter. Mrs. Molly Puempke, Oshkosh, president of the state association says.

Entries for the meet will close Sunday, and at present teams from Antigo, Racine, Milwaukee, Rhinelander, Wausau and other districts have announced representation.

Around The Sport World

HERE'S A LONG SAD STORY
CLIFFORD THORNE, of Detroit, is a former wrestling coach at the University of Michigan who, in his younger days, engaged in three handicap matches against Frank Gotch. Recently he was chief life guard at the Belle Isle bathing beach and one of the men in his squad was Gus Sonnenberg, the new heavyweight wrestling champion.

When Sonnenberg butted Strangler Lewis out of the ring in Boston and won the championship, Thorne had some comment to make about it to Detroit newspapermen and here is what he was quoted as saying:

HE SAYS—
"If Sonnenberg is a wrestler then I don't know anything about wrestling. I will guarantee you that I can produce a dozen welter and middleweight wrestlers in Detroit who can throw Sonnenberg. Why two years ago, a Belle Isle bathing beach guard, who weighed only 160 pounds, threw Sonnenberg twice in 10 minutes on the beach in the presence of 50 witnesses.

"I am 43 years old and have not engaged in a wrestling match in several years, but I am still good enough to beat Sonnenberg. He isn't fast enough on his feet. In fact, his feet are often in the way and it would be an easy matter for even a fair wrestler to throw him.

"I have often pulled and tugged with Sonnenberg. He would 'pull necks' with me any time, but he always warned me against the application of holds, and if I tried to get one on him he would pull back and refuse to continue.

"Several members of the Providence football team on which Sonnenberg played in the line last season returned to Detroit last month and described some of the matches in which Sonnenberg engaged and which seemed to have amused them highly, even though they were not conversant with the technique of wrestling.

"They told me of one match in which a powerful opponent got Sonnenberg in a half-nelson. That is a hold where the arm of the victim is twisted up his back behind the shoulder blades. Sonnenberg eluded this hold by slowly and impressively forcing his arm down until he finally brought it out in front of him. A half-nelson can't be broken that way; even a boy can keep a man from doing it in that manner.

"These teammates made particular fun of the flying tackle, which Sonnenberg had never been able to hurt anybody in too although he has tackled men weighing 100 pounds less than some of his opponents on the mat whom he drives to apparent agony. Now, in football the ball carrier is going at high speed. It is difficult for him to shift because of his momentum. He is often hit from behind or from the side by a flying tackle. He frequently is hit without seeing the tackler and with no knowledge of being in danger of being tackled. And still I have heard of no man being knocked out by the impact of the tackle.

"In view of this it seems ridiculous to believe that a man can be hurt by a flying tackle on the mat. He is stationary and the tackler is coming directly at him from a distance of 15 or 20 feet. Being set for the tackle and seeing the approaching tackler it is the simplest matter in the world for him to sidestep the tackle or, if he doesn't want to sidestep the tackler, he has to sidestep at his mercy. If he was to be dirty about it he can easily crack the fellow's forehead by a slight shift of either knee.

"All in all I think you can put down the Sonnenberg flying tackle as the strangest success ever scored in a sport that is packed with strange and even queer phenomena."

WELCOME TO COLUMBIA
Gordon Percy, member of the 1927 championship crew at Columbia, is asking a berth in the crew again. He was out last summer with a bad heel.

BELOITERS TRIM CARROLL PIONEERS

Have One Point Lead With Minute to Go and Succeed in Winning

Waukesha—(AP)—With a one-point margin, in the last two minutes of play, Beloit college resorted to offensive play and retained it to defeat Carroll college, 30 to 29, here Tuesday night. It was Beloit's opening game in the Little Four conference.

Carroll displayed a fast offensive in the first half and led 18 to 10 as the period ended.

Taylor and J. Bottino led the Beloit offensive in the second half, while Elzer, Carroll left guard started.

WOULD LIMIT AID FOR RURAL NORMALS

No State Help to County School if State Normal in Same County

Madison — (AP) — County teacher training schools located in the same county with state teacher's colleges would be prohibited from receiving state aid under provisions of a bill introduced in the Senate Tuesday by P. J. Smith, Eau Claire.

An outgrowth of recent controversy in Milwaukee over court commissioners citing persons for contempt of court is a bill introduced by Assemblyman Harry G. Slater, Milwaukee. This measure provides that no person may be punished by court commissioners for contempt of disobedience of an order only if they have been given an opportunity to defend themselves in open court.

A measure brought forward by Assemblyman Emil G. Gilbertson would give counties the right to improve roads and bridges only from county funds. The law now permits 40 percent of the cost of such work to be levied against cities, towns and villages.

Assemblyman John Eber, Milwaukee, has a joint resolution Tuesday afternoon which would divide the state into three districts. The period would be devoted to organization and introduction of bills: the second to committee hearings and the third to the disposition of bills.

The first measure proposed by Mary O. Kryszak, member of the Assembly from Milwaukee, would benefit her party, the Democratic. She seeks removal of the 5 per cent requirement to get a party on the official ballots. Her measure is similar to one brought into the Senate by Thomas M. Duncan, Socialist.

Senator John E. Cashman, Denmark, in a resolution requested the commissioners of markets, dairy and food and agriculture to obtain the names of all dairymen constructed in the Chicago milk strike. In view of the arbitration proceedings which are to be conducted between the conflicting groups, his resolution was laid on the table.

While attempting to help his horse extricate itself from a snow drift Tuesday, John H. Freude, rural mail carrier, injured his hand when the animal stepped on it. Although the hand was badly bruised, no bones were broken, and the injury is not serious.

The keggers got started in the annual war of the maps after Mayor Herman Schuele, Otto Schaaf, president of the State Bowling association, and William Penske, Milwaukee, delivered brief talks. The mayor sent the first ball down the shiny new alleys, but it took to the gutter half way to the head pin.

After that five man teams of city officials and the various municipal departments began to bombard the ten pins. They were followed by other booster quintets representing various civic organizations of the city.

The boosters, including 50 teams from Kohler, will hug the lightning until Saturday afternoon when the tournament begins in dead earnest with the invasion of the Milwaukee entrants.

The tournament is the second largest ever to be staged by the State Bowling association, with more than 7,500 bowlers striving for $22,726 in prize money.

The third issue of the Lawrence Alumnus has been placed in the mails, according to an announcement by Rexford S. Mitchell, editor of the Alumnus and alumni secretary of the college.

This issue contains several interesting articles, including one by Gordon Clapp, student secretary, on the Alumnus and Student Recruiting. Another article tells of the decision of Ernest Mahler to the Lawrence board of trustees, and Adele Klumb, who was graduated from Lawrence in 1919, has written about Teacher Training at Lawrence. There is a complete schedule of the Lawrence debate team, an account of the Lawrence students who are in the Wisconsin state legislature, and notes and announcements from various alumni.

Associate editors of the Alumnus are Elizabeth Wilson, Dr. Richard B. Evans, Myrtle Hart, Hazel Casd Rosehouse, Adele Klumb, Dan Hardt, and Violet Christensen.

"The Firefighters"

Last to arrive on the scene of a Roman fire was the most feared and respected of all Roman fire officials—the Questionarius. As his name implies, the duty of this official was to ask questions, many of which must have been highly uncomfortable for the persons questioned.

The Questionarius had great authority, and always was on the scene before a fire was extinguished. He could arrest and hold for trial anyone he suspected.

Modern fire companies have the Questionarius, under a different name. He is now called a fire marshal, but his work is the same as that of the Roman.

When the barbarians overran the Roman empire, the fire department, like so many other features of Roman civilization, sank into oblivion and for over a thousand years there were no regular fire companies. Great fires were common; Berlin was destroyed in 1405, Constantinople was swept a dozen times, London was repeatedly laid waste, and Moscow and Vienna suffered again and again.

1ST LECTURE ON BUSINESS HELD TONIGHT

Four Sessions to Be Held for New London Businessmen by U. W. Experts

New London—With 25 merchants and business men entered the business institute the first lecture on practical methods in retailing made possible through the extension division of the University of Wisconsin, will be given at the city hall on Wednesday evening. William Stofer, in charge of arrangements, said that those soliciting members to attend the lectures found the response excellent.

Four sessions are included in the conference. The first lecture will be given by Richard E. Ellingwood, assistant dean of the extension division and a member of the editorial staff of the Wisconsin Retailers' bulletin. An analysis of advertising methods and results by H. R. Doering will follow the introductory talk. Mr. Doering is also a member of the editorial staff of the bulletin and an assistant professor of business administration at the university. Effective selling, from the viewpoint of the merchant will be discussed at 8:45 by Mr. Ellingwood. The session will close with open discussion in which all present will take informal part.

PRIVATE MEETINGS
During the early morning on Thursday Mr. Doering and Mr. Ellingwood will meet merchants privately, and will be careful diagnosis of their places of business point out ways and means of improvement in various phases of selling, display, manner of approach and many other details.

At 9:45 Thursday morning addresses will cover sales talks concerning business volume and practical training of sales staff. "What do your customers think of you?" will be the subject for discussion at 10:30 Thursday afternoon, led by Mr. Doering. The remainder of the day will be occupied by more private conferences these to take place in various business houses. "How to sell more goods," a talk given by Mr. Ellingwood will bring the conference to a close, this talk being given on Thursday evening at 8:15. Business men felt that the talks cannot fail to be helpful as the discussions are made workable through the individual conferences, at which time weak places in the various places of business can be pointed out by men well versed in all branches of retail selling and management.

NEW LONDON CAGERS TO PLAY AT EAST DE PERE

New London—New London's high school basketball fans will see no more games until Feb. 8 when Gillett plays here. On Friday of this week the team will go to East De Pere for a game there that evening. East has a fast team this year, built around a tight defense. In their last game they held the Algoma high basketballers to seven points. Although the Red and Whites are still in the zero column they have lost their main games by one and two-point margins. Clintonville's team, which won by but two points, was usually strong this year, having four men with two or more years' basketball training. The boys have been drilled hard this week by Coach Polomski and should give East a good rub.

NEWS BRIEFS GATHERED AT VILLAGE OF MEDINA

40,000 WORKING FOR POOR PEOPLE IN NEW YORK CITY

More Than $102,600,000 Will Be Spent for Charity There This Year

BY ANDRUE BERDING
New York (AP)—A city of 40,000 persons could be crated out of the number of those whose work it is to minister to New York's army of the poor.

According to the Welfare Council of New York City, the sum devoted to charity in the metropolis this last year will total more than $102,600,000, the equivalent of a loan sufficient to put some Balkan nations on their financial feet.

If all the offices occupied by charitable organizations in New York were put together they would form the downtown section of an average city. The homes of the 10,000 professional social service workers, and of the 10,000 semi-professional workers and their families would compose the residential sections. All told, there are some 1,200 different social service organizations here.

Half-a-million people and more come directly or indirectly under the influence of one or other of the social service groups. One organization alone, the Charity Organization Society, has 3,000 different families under its motherly wing. New York spends $17.62 per person each year on the poor, reports of the social workers show.

It is calculated that the metropolis has gained billions of dollars in increased earning capacity among the poor and in lessened danger from crime resulting from better social conditions.

Only within the past three years that 1,200 charity organizations of New York have had a central, coordinating bureau. This now exists under the name of the Welfare Council of which Robert W. De Forest, head of the Russell Sage Foundation, is president.

The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Foundation and the Commonwealth Fund have recently given the Welfare Council grants of $300,000 to make a social service survey of New York. The survey is designed to increase the efficiency to the charity societies by still further coordination. It will be in the nature of a great balance sheet, showing on one hand what charity resources there are in New York city, and on the other what needs of the poor must be met.

NO MURDER TRIALS HERE LAST YEAR

One Such Case, Placed on Calendar on Change of Venue, Is Dismissed

Not a single murder trial took place in this county last year, the annual report of Sydney S. Shannon, clerk of courts, compiled for the state board of control, shows. One trial for first degree murder was placed on the circuit court calendar here on a change of venue from another county, but the trial was dismissed.

No other homicides were pending at the beginning of the year, although there were 14 other felonies and six offenses less than felonies pending at that time, his report indicates. There were 57 prosecutions for felonies and 15 for offenses less than felonies commenced during the year, making a total of 93 cases that came before the court in 1928.

Two convictions on felony charges were made upon trial by jury, and 25 convictions for felony and six for lesser offenses upon pleas of guilty. There were no convictions upon trial by the court and one acquittal on a felony charge upon trial by jury.

Acquittals or dismissals by the court were as follows: Murder first degree, 1; all other felonies, 1; offenses less than felony, 2.

Two persons charged with felony and two charged with lesser offenses were brought to trial in which nolle prosequi was entered. There were no prosecutions transferred to other courts.

SOPHOMORE TRIANGLE CLUB HAS MEETING

The Sophomore Triangle club of the Appleton high school met at the Y. M. C. A., Monday evening to consider the adoption of a constitution which was used by former clubs, according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary. No definite action was taken on any of the issues presented at the meeting. Plans for the year were discussed, and regular business matters transacted.

Every police beat maintained for the full 24 hours in London costs about $5,000 a year.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

Olive Tablets are a pure vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 20c, 60c. All Druggists. Adv.

HORMONE IS AT LAST ISOLATED BY U. W. PROF

Madison (AP)—A hormone, sometimes called a chemical messenger, has been isolated by Frederick L. Hisaw, professor of zoology at the University of Wisconsin, he announced Tuesday. The hormone, he explained is vitally important to processes of reproduction in mammals. Prof. Hisaw isolated the corpus luteum hormone.

The experiment carried on over a period of years adds another name to the small group of isolated hormones. Prof. Hisaw says the hormone group is large, but few have been isolated. They supplement the nervous system in correlating body activities and effect chemical co-ordinations between different organs of the body.

Secreted by the endocrine, or ductless glands, hormones are carried in the blood stream, usually for the purpose of exciting a state of activity in some part of the body.

Prof. Hisaw's discovery about in search for an explanation for some of the extraordinary characteristics in guinea pig reproduction. He found certain reactions that had not been explained, one of which was that relaxation of public ligaments of pregnant animals to ease birth of young was under hormonal control.

The relaxation, he found, depends on the co-operation between two hormones. It was one of these he isolated.

Although present work has been done on animals, Prof. Hisaw is of the opinion that human application may be revealed.

BEAVER COLONIES DO WELL IN WISCONSIN

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington, D. C.—The attempts recently made to stock the Upper Mississippi river wild life and fish refuge, near Lacrosse, with beaver colonies are beginning to show good results, according to a report made to the department of agriculture by the superintendent of the refuge, who states that the beavers captured in northern Wisconsin last spring and liberated on the refuge are apparently doing well. Recently discovered two fine new lodges constructed by the animals on a small slough near the place they were liberated. After a-seeing these, the superintendent stated that from the quantity of winter food collected by the beavers and situated in front of the new lodges and from the extent the animals have cut the aspen and willow growth along the slough, there has been some increase from the pairs liberated. The fact that the beavers are remaining and building their lodges in the bottomland instead of following up some of the streams coming in from the hills, confirms the early opinion of the superintendent that the bottomlands are admirably adapted to beaver colonization. He considers it desirable to stock the bottomlands with beavers at various points along the three-hundred miles over which the refuge extends.

The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Foundation and the Commonwealth Fund have recently given the Welfare Council grants of $300,000 to make a social service survey of New York. The survey is designed to increase the efficiency to the charity societies by still further coordination. It will be in the nature of a great balance sheet, showing on one hand what charity resources there are in New York city, and on the other what needs of the poor must be met.

Not a single murder trial took place in this county last year, the annual report of Sydney S. Shannon, clerk of courts, compiled for the state board of control, shows. One trial for first degree murder was placed on the circuit court calendar here on a change of venue from another county, but the trial was dismissed.

No other homicides were pending at the beginning of the year, although there were 14 other felonies and six offenses less than felonies pending at that time, his report indicates. There were 57 prosecutions for felonies and 15 for offenses less than felonies commenced during the year, making a total of 93 cases that came before the court in 1928.

Two convictions on felony charges were made upon trial by jury, and 25 convictions for felony and six for lesser offenses upon pleas of guilty. There were no convictions upon trial by the court and one acquittal on a felony charge upon trial by jury.

Acquittals or dismissals by the court were as follows: Murder first degree, 1; all other felonies, 1; offenses less than felony, 2.

Two persons charged with felony and two charged with lesser offenses were brought to trial in which nolle prosequi was entered. There were no prosecutions transferred to other courts.

SOPHOMORE TRIANGLE CLUB HAS MEETING

The Sophomore Triangle club of the Appleton high school met at the Y. M. C. A., Monday evening to consider the adoption of a constitution which was used by former clubs, according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary. No definite action was taken on any of the issues presented at the meeting. Plans for the year were discussed, and regular business matters transacted.

Every police beat maintained for the full 24 hours in London costs about $5,000 a year.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

Olive Tablets are a pure vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 20c, 60c. All Druggists. Adv.

Will sell seats for military parade Mar. 4

Washington (AP)—view of the military parade which on March 4 will celebrate the inauguration of Herbert Hoover as president will cost $7.50 if the viewer wishes a covered seat opposite the presidential reviewing stand at the White House.

Less favored seats will be sold for $5 and $3. The Hoover Inaugural committee announced Tuesday that a total of 45,000 seats would be erected along Pennsylvania-ave for the occasion.

Arranging tours for Appleton residents

There's no one going to the Riviera, and no one going to Egypt, but nevertheless Frank B. Groh, general informant on tours, tickets, visas and other accessories incident to foreign travel, is of the opinion that this year will see a greater migration of Appleton people to foreign countries than ever before. Although no one has made reservations for travel this winter—foreign travel is a luxury and not to be squandered on the winter months—there are between 25 and 30 people already making preparations for summer tours.

In most cases European countries will be visited, with the greatest number signing up to tour England, Holland, Germany, France and the Scandinavian countries, although there are two who are planning to "do" Africa.

Library Notes

Three new books at the public library ranking at the top in popularity with the reading public are Woodward's "Meet General Grant," "Roads to the North," by Charles S. Brooks, and "Mexico and Its Heritage," by Ernest Gruening.

"Meet General Grant," by the author of "George Washington," is a masterpiece in the Woodward method in biography. The man Grant looms in bold silhouette against the lively historical background and stands head and shoulders above other men. Woodward has the rare wisdom to understand Grant the failure, as well as to appreciate Grant the success.

Brooks' new book tells of a cycling trip from Southampton to the border of Scotland through Salisbury, Ayrbury, Chipping Campden, Stratford, Warwick, Litchfield, the Dukeries, York and Durham, together with frequent detours where the crossroads beckoned. It is a book of by-ways and vagrant speculation, of humor linked to beauty, of fact with a pinch of fancy.

"Mexico and Its Heritage" is a thorough, dispassionate and illuminating answer to the question, "What is really going on in Mexico?" that smoldering, hectic, colorful, mysterious, misunderstood southern neighbor of ours? It is not a book of impressions, but the result of five searching visits to Mexico and a scientific study of documents.

One of the most popular of children's books is "House at Pooh Corner" by A. A. Milne. Others are "Pinocchio in America" by Angelo Patri; "Sea Legs" by A. F. Loomis; "Chusaders" Gold," A. D. Kyle; "The Overland Trail," R. W. Kaufman; "Game Legs," A. C. Bartlett; "On the Trail of Chief Joseph," F. C. Robertson; "Brother Blackfoot," Alan Sullivan; "Feast of Noel," Gertrude Crownfield; "Come Christmas," Eleanor Farjeon; and "Birds' Christmas Carol," K. D. Wiggins.

Work on locks may continue for months

Construction work on the second and third Appleton locks probably will continue until navigation opens in the spring, according to A. F. Everett, government engineer. Work has been hindered due to the excessive cold weather and heavy snow and for several weeks was suspended. The locks are being remodeled and stone and concrete platforms are replacing the old wood ones.

Committee views city's demands for postoffice

Appleton's demands for a federal building here are receiving consideration by the point committee of the treasury and postal departments as these groups prepare their reports for the coming year, it was indicated the last few days when at least seven Appleton business men received letters from federal officers stating they were giving every consideration to this city's demands for a new post office.

Among the men working for the new building is Congressman George J. Schneider, who is keeping in close touch with the situation, according to a letter to Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce. The congressman has informed Mr. Corbett that information on the new postoffice building will be ready in a few days.

Put finishing touch on good will tour

Wausau (AP)—Wisconsin's second annual Good Will Tour through southeastern states, is undergoing the final preparatory touches, with the issuance of schedules and information on towns to be visited.

The tour train leaves Madison Monday, Feb. 25 for Milwaukee, from which city it officially starts its trip that reaches a climax at the Inauguration ceremonies in Washington March 4.

The booklets describe the train as containing much the same exhibit material, with a possible wider variety, as that one of 1928, which toured states south of here along the Mississippi. The booklets are being mailed to interested parties from train headquarters in the local chamber of commerce building.

Students in Minnesota seek coffee coupons

Calls for food relief, for second hand books and for teaching programs have come to the office of the superintendent of schools, but it took a sixth grade girl from a Crookston, Minn., school to burst into print with the original request—"an S. O. S. for coffee coupons!"

"We are saving coffee coupons for a radio for our school," says the letter, "and as I have been told that these are not valid in the state of Wisconsin I am writing to ask if your pupils could save them for us."

According to the letter the Crookston school has succeeded in corraling one-third of the number necessary, which represents a total of 7,550 and no doubt there will be contributions from Appleton children to help swell the collection.

The letter was printed in the mimeographed notes of the fifth and sixth grade teachers meeting held at Lincoln school Monday afternoon and teachers were asked to announce the request to their pupils. In the same bulletin was printed a letter from John Callahan, state superintendent, asking for aid in the Near East Relief.

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to a talk on the methods of teaching art by Miss Carrie Morgan and a discussion of the reading program for grade schools. Teachers again were urged to admonish pupils against the careless handling of snowballs.

County boards group meets next month

Mike Mack, chairman of the county board, John E. Hantechel, county clerk and a second board member probably will attend the annual meeting of the Wisconsin County Boards association at Madison Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Feb. 13, 14 and 15. Problems particularly trying to counties will be discussed at the meeting.

What a doctor knows about constipation

There is a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to the mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA. Just as effective as using force, and it's good for the system. Indeed, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascade your bowels? They will usually function better for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—larger, and perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't feel the need of any aid of any sort for weeks-on-end.

So, the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative; and the familiar little candy tablets and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose. And EVERY drug store has them.

CASCARETS They Work While You Sleep!

DEAR RADIO LISTENERS of Tuesday Nights State Eagles Membership Drive Program -

The response for talent for the all Eagle Program went beyond Harry R. McLogan's expectations, and not to disappoint aerie entirely the time of each was shortened, there was not one aerie that completed its program.

You may be assured that Appleton's Talent was disappointed that they could not put on its entire program; and it sure was encouraging to them to receive your kind telegrams, for which I at this time want to thank you in behalf of Appleton Aerie.

Please mail or wire before 6:30 P. M. tonite your comments to Harry R. McLogan, care of Eagles Club, Milwaukee and help Appleton win the loving cup.

Yours sincerely and fraternally,

Appleton Aerie

The New Pontiac Big Six is a brand new car from beginning to end. It offers big car performance produced by a big, new L-head engine, accurately balanced rotating parts, new and silent internal-expanding four-wheel brakes, Hotchkiss drive and many additional mechanical features of equally high quality. It provides the style, comfort and luxury of a car 167 inches in overall length and equipped with masterly new bodies by Fisher. And what is more—it provides all these big car qualities at prices which make no great drain on the purse.

PEOPLE don't go around telling their neighbors, "I'm progressive. I'm looking for finer things." Yet neighbors have ways and means of knowing. And one of their surest signs is the family automobile.

That's why the New Pontiac Big Six offers so much to up-and-coming Americans. It represents progress. It embodies big car luxury, performance and style. It constitutes an impressive step up from lower-priced transportation.

In any case of pimples, blackheads, sore or itching skin, you must do TWO things! You must clear the skin of the pimples, blackheads, scales and blotches and also heal the sore and broken tissue. That's what Rowles Menthio Sulphur does—the sulphur clears the skin while the menthol heals. That's why this great combination is putting an end to skin troubles. One night sees a great change in the skin. In two or three days the skin is of a new, clear healthy whiteness. All druggists carry Rowles Menthio Sulphur. Be sure it's Rowles.

Does Your Car Start When You Step on the Starter?
